City Given Until Oct. 1 to Vote School Bonds

DEADLINE FOR LOCAL FUNDS SET BY PWA

Decides $450,000 U. S. Grant Will Be Forfeited Unless City Acts by Then.

TAKE STEPS FOR ELECTION

School Board Head Seeks to Have PWA Earmark Money for Mansfield Plan.

If Mansfield is to vote at a special election on the question of a $550,000 bond issue for construction of new school buildings, it will have to do so before Oct. 1.

That was the word that came from PWA officials in Washington today.

The school bond proposal—defeated by a slight margin in Tuesday's primary—calls for a $450,000 grant by PWA.

Consider Resubmission.

Immediately after it became apparent that the local bond issue had lost Tuesday, school board officials began consideration of plans to resubmit the question, either at a special election or at the regular election in November.

However, the decision of PWA today, announced in Associated Press dispatches, left them no choice but to hold a special election.

Harold W. Arlin, president of the board, informed of the PWA ruling by The News-Journal, said he would take the necessary steps to clear the way for a special election.

Butler Funds Released.

One of those steps he said, would be to attempt to have the PWA actually earmark the $450,000 for Mansfield schools. He explained that the allocation had been approved, but that the money had not yet been set aside. However, had the bond issue passed, it undoubtedly would have been earmarked. PWA today released $40,500 to the Butler school district. Butler voters approved a school bond issue Tuesday.

A state tax commission opinion, favoring a special election will also be necessary. It was not expected that would be difficult to obtain, in view of the most recent PWA decision.

TRIO MISSING

Falls Veils Disappearance of Two Men, Woman.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—(AP)—Niagara's thundering cataract veiled three mysteries today as police sought two men and a woman who disappeared virtually from the brink of the falls.

One man was reported last seen wading the treacherous rapids above the American falls. John R. Sutherland, 20-year-old Butler, Pa., college student, spent Tuesday night in a tourist home in Niagara Falls, Ont., with his parents and was missing the next morning. A woman seen standing at a guard rail disappeared a few minutes later.

'Lost' Fishermen Eat Steaks as Storm Blows

Mansfield Party Snug on Lonely Island While Coast Guard Hunts.

While the United States Coast Guard searched the dark, stormy waters of Lake Erie Wednesday night and Thursday morning, while relatives were frantic with worry, while telephone and telegraph wires hummed with conjectures and possibilities as to their whereabouts, six "lost" fishermen from Mansfield and Shelby were snug as a bug in a rug in their sanctuary—a former gangster's hideout on a lonely island in Lake Erie

They were Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church; Lee Stone, D. L. Burns, and Glenn Rinehart of Mansfield; and Rev. D. B. Young and Rev. M. P. Paetznick of Shelby. Rev. Young is mayor of Shelby and pastor of the Shelby Lutheran church, with Rev. Paetznick as his assistant.

Late Wednesday night when word spread in the city that the speed boat in which the six had left Battery park, Sandusky, that morning, had failed to put into port, that a storm was lashing the lake and coast guardsmen were searching for the party, there was consternation and anxiety.

No one, of course, could possibly dream that the six were devouring a big steak supper, drying their clothes and gloating over their big catch of fish within the low dark rooms of a small hotel on Middle island, which once was the hideout of the gangster, Alvin Karpis, and which now serves as a little hotel for fishermen. It is in Canadian territory about 400 feet across the international boundary line.

The story was yesterday's headline for morning and afternoon papers over the northern part of the state; three news services sent out thousands of words on it. It was probably one of the most highly publicized fishing expeditions in years.

The whole story was pieced together today for The News-Journal by Rev. Gilbert and a coastguardsman at Marblehead who was "interviewed" by telephone.

"We left Battery park about 9 a. m. Wednesday," Rev. Gilbert said, "at first it was a little rough and the fishing slow. But later in the day it picked up and I've never seen a better catch than that which we made in three hours—between 185 and 200 fish.

"About 5:45 we started the return trip to Sandusky, probably about a 45 minute run from where we were fishing. It wasn't storming then, but you know how quickly a gale can come up on Lake Erie. As we raced toward Sandusky, we sighted a disabled craft. The men on it were waving their shirts and signalling frantically. Of course we went over to them and found them helpless in a rapidly approaching storm, with a broken propellor.

"To have left them there would have been inhuman as well as contrary to law, for it certainly would have meant death for the four men aboard. On the other hand we knew we couldn't make port before the storm if we towed the disabled craft in.

"So we tied the craft to our boat and proceeded slowly toward Middle island, six miles away, which was closest. Three times the cable broke, we dropped the boat and had to go back and pick her up again. It took considerable time and the wind was increasing. However, I don't think we were in danger at any time. We had just reached Middle island and tied up the boats when the storm broke.

"We went to the little hotel which is said to have been used by Alvin Karpis as a hideout. It looked good to us and we spent a very comfortable night there while the

These Nine Didn't Fare as Well as Richland Fishermen

While the Mansfield-Shelby fishermen were forced to seek shelter on Middle Island in Lake Erie during Wednesday night's storm, some of the others who were caught in the storm did not fare so well. Shown above are the nine persons from Newport, Mich., who were helplessly adrift on the wind-lashed waves for hours when their 30-foot cabin boat was disabled by the storm. They were sighted and rescued not far from Sandusky by the freighter J. F. Schoellkopf. The man in the front row, wearing the cap is Capt. George Anderson, master of the freighter.

GET READY FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

County Leaders Announce New Central Committeemen to Meet Before Aug. 24.

The primaries over, Richland county Democratic and Republican party leaders today looked toward the fall campaign and the general state and county election in November.

Chairman M. W. Conley of the Democratic central committee, and Chairman Ralph M. Hardy of the Republican committee, said their respective committees will meet between now and Aug. 24 to reorganize and draft plans for November campaign.

Both chairmen said the committees will be summoned soon after the county board of elections certifies the names of precinct committeemen elected at Tuesday's primary. State laws require that committee reorganization meetings be held within 15 days after the primary.

A. F. Porter, clerk of the election board, said today that work of recording the committeemen

'Some Folks Don't Care Whose Son I Am'--Jimmy

Younger Roosevelt Replies to Story of Huge Income In Magazine Article, Radio Interview.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—"There are a lot of people in this country who don't give a damn whose son I am."

Jimmy Roosevelt, son and aid of the president speaking. Jimmy who was supposed to have cleaned up a tidy fortune in insurance because of the door-opening magic of the name Roosevelt.

A little disgusted, a whole lot annoyed, Jimmy Roosevelt opened up to Walter Davenport of Collier's magazine, put his cards on the table and told just how much money he has made since 1933 and how he made it. This was by way of answer to Alva Johnston's Saturday Evening Post article "Jimmy's got it."

Reply Broadcast, Too.

A few hours before Jimmy's answer was distributed in Collier's, the president's son was interviewed over the NBC network by Davenport. The text of the radio interview was largely based on the magazine article, except Jimmy added over the air: "Being the son of the president, they'd have been calling me a crook no matter what business I had entered."

In 1933, Davenport noted, Jimmy had an income of $21,714.31. The next year it mounted to $49,167.37. In 1935, it dropped to $33,593.37. His 1936 income climbed to $44,668.60 and in 1937 (he was now the president's secretary and had

CHECK BALLOTS

Election Officials to Certify Official Vote Tomorrow.

George C. Balliet, chairman of the Richland county board of elections, today called a meeting of the board for 2 p. m. Saturday to certify the official vote cast for their various offices voted upon at Tuesday's primaries.

Balliet said that a check of the vote cast in all of the county's 90 polling precincts will have been completed by that time and will permit certification of the official vote.

He added that any challenges and complaints will be heard by the board at that time. None had been brought to the attention of the board so far he said.

Meanwhile, the election board sent out notices to candidates calling attention to the fact that campaign expense accounts must be filed within 15 days after the primary. No accounts had been filed at noon today.

HUNT RESIGNS SCHOOL POST

County Board Member Quits as Latest Development in Robinson Ouster Move.

Floyd Hunt of Mansfield, member of the Richland county board of education, whose membership on the board was attacked as to its legality, submitted his resignation today to L. L. Rinehart, president of the board.

Hunt's action came a few hours before Probate Judge C. J. Anderson was to conduct a hearing on an application for Hunt's removal and for the appointment of a successor.

The removal proceedings were instituted by A. S. Beach and J. V. Will attorneys for Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, who is fighting an ouster movement which was being pressed by Hunt and another board member, C. C. Tugend.

Hunt charged that the attempt to oust him from the board was

Ewing said he found a note signed by Wanderling declaring his intention of killing his wife and himself but giving no motive.

Who Said Job Was a Patient Guy?

MARYSVILLE, Kan.—(AP)—Farmer Lee Barney hates to lose his temper.

To keep from becoming angry, he quit work for the day after:

The power lift on his plow broke.

Two hornets stung him as he sought a similar piece from another plow.

A spark went down his shirt and burned his back as he watched the blacksmith weld the broken equipment.

He left the blacksmith shop and found a flat tire on his car.

WASHINGTON, Ind.—(AP)—Cholera killed several of his hogs.

One of his children suffered a broken arm in a fall.

Another was hurt in an automobile accident.

A cyclone tore the roof from his barn. Lightning damaged what was left.

But Charles Faith still had some optimism left.

Said he: "I guess I was lucky after all. The hay and other stuff in the barn was wet and wouldn't burn."

CARROLL CASE NEARING JURY, TESTIMONY IN

State Calls No Witnesses in Rebuttal, Prosecutor Asks Guilty Verdict.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS ON

Ex-Deputy Fails to Deny He Killed Doctor, Attorney for State Asserts.

(By United Press)

SOUTH PARIS, Me.—The state today demanded conviction of former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll for the murder of a country doctor, a slaying for which his daughter's sweetheart is serving a life sentence.

Prosecutor Ralph M. Ingalls began his closing argument to the jury. Neither he nor the defense presented any rebuttal witnesses. The case was expected to reach the jury this afternoon.

No Denial, Claim.

Ingalls recalled that Carroll, a former scoutmaster and church worker, had gone on the witness stand in his own defense in an effort to absolve himself of any connection with the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield last Oct. 13 at the Paris Hill home of 19-year-old Paul (Buddy) Dwyer.

"At no time has Mr. Carroll said he did not kill Dr. Littlefield," Ingalls said. "And at no time has he said he was not on Paris Hill that night."

The prosecutor also seized on the fact that Carroll did not deny having immoral relations with his 17-year-old daughter, Barbara Carroll, Dwyer's former sweetheart.

The state contends that Carroll slew Dr. Littlefield when the physician threatened to expose him as the seducer of his own daughter.

Mixed Up on Dates.

The defense rested late yesterday after a "strong man" demonstration intended to show that the frail Dwyer was physically capable of the murder, and after a mix-up in dates that jeopardized Carroll's alibi for the night of the murder and left him pale and almost speecheless.

The jury was left to decide for itself where Carroll had served a summons at 9 p. m. on the night of

WPA MOVES TO AVERT STRIKE

Orders 2 Discharged Workers Re-assigned; 300 More to Be Put on Job Next Week.

A threatened strike of WPA workers on the Woodland water improvement was apparently forestalled today by WPA officials in Columbus when they ordered the re-assignment of two discharged workers and at the same time announced that 300 more men would be assigned to the million dollar county road and bridge project next week.

At Columbus today J. L. Kelley, director of district six of which Richland county is a part, said that Fred Warren, 10½ West Temple court, and Quaig Fish, of Bellville, discharged from the Woodland project last week, would be re-assigned.

Kelley said that the assignment of 300 additional men on the county project next week would bring the total number employed on the program to 480.

With 874 now employed on WPA, the new workers will raise the total to 1,174 on the various projects in the county, the largest number to be employed by WPA

Senator Roosevelt Spurned In Georgia Girds for Battle

(By Associated Press)

ATLANTA — Sen. Walter F. George, renounced by President Roosevelt as a "Dyed-in-the-wool" conservative, based renomination campaign plans today on the declaration "we have just begun to fight."

"The Democratic party is not a one-man party," he asserted, "but a party for the great rank and file of American men and women who love justice, liberty, equal rights for all and special privileges for none."

The senate veteran told President Roosevelt "I accept the challenge" after the chief executive reaffirmed yesterday at Barnesville, Ga., that "I most assuredly would cast my ballot for Lawrence Camp," New Dealer.

"God bless you, Walter," the president replied. "Let's always be friends."

Senator George stood on an Atlanta hotel balcony last night and told a crowd which assembled to greet him "the events of today have cleared the last remaining doubt as to the verdict of the people of Georgia Sept. 14."

"I am confident," he said, "that the Georgia people are ready to fight this thing through to a finish and prove that we in Georgia are capable and determined to run our own affairs."

FIRST HEARING REVEALS POWER BUND WIELDED

Reporter Who Became Storm Trooper Tells Committee of Subversive Activity.

'BOSSED' CONSULAR CORPS

Asserts Groups Planned Vast Spy Net and Powerful Sabotage Machine.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The German government supports the Nazi movement in the United States, according to an admission by Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American bund, the Dies committee investigating un-American activities was told today at its first hearing.

In a spectacular opening of an investigation that will reach into and attempt to expose every subversive movement in the nation, the committee heard the sensational testimony quoting Kuhn from one of its own investigators, John C. Metcalfe, a former Chicago newspaper man.

Cites Ambassador's Removal.

Metcalfe, in measured words taken from a great sheaf of reports and records which he compiled, said Kuhn also told him that he was responsible for the removal of Dr. Hans Luther as German ambassador to the United States.

Further, Kuhn was quoted by Metcalfe, the German-American bund leader could force the removal of any German consular officer in the United States who failed to co-operate with him.

Joined Bund Himself.

Metcalfe spent six months investigating the Nazi movement in this country for a newspaper. He became a storm trooper. When he quit newspaper work, he was retained by the Dies committee to continue his investigation.

The real aims of the Hitlerized corps of German Americans, he said, were these:

1. The establishment of a vast spy net.

2. A powerful sabotage machine.

3. A German minority with the present group as nucleus and to encompass as many German-Americans as possible.

Bared Link With Nazis.

Kuhn explained his close relationship with the Nazi government, he said, after Metcalfe reported on a trip he made to Bund posts in many cities.

He said he visited Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Gabriel, Calif., Oakland, San Antonio, Tex., St.

DUCE STEPS UP BABY CAMPAIGN, NEW GOAL SET

Rural South's 'Production' Only Hope for Population of 60 Millions in '40.

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Premier Benito Mussolini wants 60,000,000 Italians by 1950.

If he gets them, it will be the rural south not the industrial north he will have to thank. Statistics show the south responds better than the north to his campaign for more babies.

Calabria, Italy's toe, and Puglie, its heel, have birth rates approximately double those of northern Piedmont and Lombardy.

In the net population gain the south makes even a better showing for the high pre-Fascist death rate there has been reduced by modern sanitation and medicine.

A leader of the Fascist baby campaign, Franco De Agazio, compiled figures showing that if Piedmont's 1936 birth rate held good for all Italy the country in 1961 would have only its present population of 43,000,000.

But if Calabria's rate obtained for all Italy, in 1961, there would be 67,279,000 Italians, Agazio asserts.

The birth propaganda and the new Fascist racial doctrine are promoted by the same government office.

In the first years of the demographic campaign the birthrate dropped from 30.1 per 1,000 population in 1922, the year Fascism came to power, to 22.2 in 1936.

The government, alarmed, doubled the intensity of its campaign and the 1937 rate went up to 22.7. Figures since January indicate an increase also may be registered for 1938.

The government encourages child-bearing in many ways—by constant propaganda, bachelor's tax, prizes, tax exemptions, reduced rail fares, preferment in government jobs, and other inducements.

Premier Mussolini thinks the future of the Italian people is bound up with greater numbers. A teeming Italian population is his main argument for Italy's right to expand, and the more it teems, he believes, the better the chances for successful expansion and revival of the glory and power of old Rome.

Fascism does not conceal its desire to have more babies so it may have more soldiers.

Urging bigger families, Il Duce's newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, asked: "Twenty years from now, will we have soldiers, sailors and aviators to defend the empire? Not if they are not born."

Italy's birthrate, though considerably higher than that of the United States, Britain, France, Germany, or the Scandinavian countries, nevertheless is exceeded by several European states, including Spain, Portugal, Rumania, Greece, Yugoslavia, Poland and Russia.

Vitt on Pan as Tribe Slump Sends Pennant Hopes Down

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Bob Feller, the 19-year-old Iowa farm boy, faced another crisis in his meteoric major league baseball career today as Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians continued to juggle in senseless fashion his plans for the young right-hander.

After Feller displayed an unmatched streak of wildness against the New York Yankees last week Vitt said:

"I'm going to let Bob work things out for himself. Hereafter I will not be hasty in removing him from games. For the remainder of the season he will work strictly in starting roles and not be called upon for relief duties."

In the opening game of a series at St. Louis Tuesday Feller hurled great ball for seven innings, during which time he allowed only three hits Then when the first two men up in the eighth hit safely Vitt promptly jerked the youngster. The Indians eventually lost the game when Denny Galehouse and Johnny Humphries gave miserable relief exhibitions.

Yesterday in the opening game of a double-header with one man on base and no one out, Vitt "forgot" again his announced plan for Feller and sent the young fireballer in for relief work. Bob wasn't equal to the task. He cut loose with a wild pitch and then was nicked for a single that permitted Mel Almada to score the run which gave St. Louis an 8 to 7 decision.

The Browns also took the second game 8 to 2 and practically eliminated Cleveland from even the slightest pennant consideration. The Tribe now trails the Yanks by 6½ games.

Miserable pitching and Vitt's indiscreet use of Feller was the story of the double loss

Al Milnar started the first game and was hammered for 10 hits in 4⅓ innings. Then Humphries came on to pitch until the ninth when Vitt had his "brainstorm" and sent Feller to he hill. Humphries allowed only three hits in 3⅔ innings.

"Buck" Newsom went the route for the Browns and allowed only five safeties. He had one bad inning, the fourth, when the Indians scored six times. The remainder of the game he was the complete master, however.

In the second contest the Browns pounded wobbly Willis Hudlin for 17 hits and the easy victory. Les Tietje, in the box for St. Louis, gave up only six safeties.

The disorganized Cleveland outfit moved in here for a double-header with the White Sox today. Mel Harder and Denny Galehouse were slated to pitch for the Indians, with Ted Lyons and Johnny Whitehead opposing them.

The title "queen of the courts" might well be bestowed upon stunning Kay Stammers, British tennis star shown on arrival in New York for the national championships at Forest Hills next month.

THE championship of The News-Journal Class B golf league was decided in favor of the Bissman company swingers yesterday when they defeated the second-place Mansfield Metal Vaults, 3-2, in the next to the last day of play at Possum Run.

The Bissman golfers have accumulated a total of 48 points to 42 for the Vaults, and the nearest the latter club can come to overtaking the champions in the final matches next week is one point if the new throne room occupants are blanked in their last series.

Win Three Matches.

Yesterday's victory edge was won by the Bissman sluggers on three match victories. Alex Davis won the lone match point for the Vaults, who obtained their other point on low gross.

The scoring was by no means spectacular in this all-important match. The lowest score was a 41 shot by Adam Brandt of the champions. Tony Schadek and Steve Stirtzinger added the other match points.

The Central Fruit & Grocery club practically sewed up third place by routing the Elks, 4 to 1. Homer King setting the pace for the winners with a 41. Ferd Loykovich and Swigart accounted for the other match wins. Ford won the lone point for the Lodgemen with a 42.

Scoring a 3 to 2 victory over Al's Kicks, The News-Journal entry put the clinchers on fourth place.

V. H. Oberlander, low with a 41, and Maurice Byrnes won for The News-Journals, while Fred Lewis and Eichin scored wins for the Kicks.

Fay's 39 Low.

In the other match, Ohio Public Service, led by Harry Fay's 39, which won medal honors, and Oscar Frantz's 40, defeated the Auxter Motors, 3 to 2.

Hurls One-Hit Game for Oils

Donna Schuster Sets Down Visitors in 17-0 Win.

One hit robbed Donna Schuster of a no-hit game yesterday as she hurled Remy's Sunoco Oils to a one-sided 17 to 0 victory over the Jeromesville Ideal Dairys at North park.

The only hit obtained off Schuster's delivery was a single by Franks, hurler for the visiting team.

The Mansfield feminine team collected 12 hits, with Gaubatz setting the pace with three. Errors and four walks figured promnently in the Mansfield team's scoring.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The lads who batter par for a living set the pace today in Cleveland's $10,000 open golf tournament Three of the professional entrants spurted into the lead yesterday with sizzling 69's on Oakwood Country club's par 71 course.

Grant Advised To Quit Game

Laughs at Warning After Collapsing on Court.

RYE, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Bryan M. Grant, jr., of Atlanta, "Mighty Mite" of tennis, was advised to give up the game temporarily. Grant, who collapsed twice while playing in the eastern lawn championships yesterday, laughed at the warnnig and said "I'm alright, and I have no intention of defaulting today."

Grant, who has not fully regained his strength from a recent appendectomy first collapsed in the third and deciding set against national collegiate champion Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla. He revived after he had been given first aid, and won his way into the quarter-final round. After the match he fainted again, and was ordered to bed by Dr. E. J. Healey.

Louis to Remain Idle Until 1939

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The men who control the heavyweight boxing championship announced today that Joe Louis would not defend his title again this year. A 1939 program for the champion was made public, however. It will place the title on the line four times between next Jan. 1 and Sept. 30 "if he can find anybody to fight."

Mike Jacobs, who has a promotional monopoly on Louis' services, wants to stage three title bouts in New York and one in California next year.

Anyone can win up to $500.00 any week in Kellogg's All-American Baseball Poll!

Here's how easy it is. Just pick a player for the position of the week, and tell in 30 words or less why you like him. A winning statement can be as simple and natural as this: "I like him because even though he plays on a team that's an 'in-and-outer', he's in there every day, playing championship ball". But you don't have to give a technical baseball reason for your preference. You can like a player because he's handsome—or good-natured. And you can win any prize, any week, whether the player you choose gets the most votes or not.

Till midnight tomorrow you still have a chance to vote for Shortstop. Be sure to mail your vote today! And next week, vote for Left Fielder!

HOW TO VOTE:

1. Write on plain paper or on the official entry ballot obtainable from your grocer (It contains full rules and information).
2. Name your favorite Shortstop or Left Fielder, and give name of his team (He may be any professional player in any league today).
3. Complete in 30 additional words or less this statement: "I like him because . . .".
4. Give your name and address.
5. Give your grocer's name and address.
6. Attach two tops from packages of Kellogg's Corn Flakes and mail to Kellogg All-American Committee, Howard-Clark Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
7. Your vote for Shortstop must be postmarked not later than midnight, Saturday, August 13. For Left Fielder not later than midnight, Saturday, August 20.

Coach Charges Intimidation

Threatens Legal Action Against U. S. L. A.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — George Hudson, Berkeley, Calif., tennis coach, charged today that his star pupil and protege, 18-year-old Frankie Kovacs, was "playing ball" with the U. S. Lawn Tennis association.

He threatened legal action against the association for alleged intimidation declaring that he had spent years developing Kovacs into a top-flight player with championship potentialities only to be deserted because a "certain tennis official told him (Kovacs) that he would not be helped or supported by the association if he continued to accept coaching from me."

"I can understand Frankie's denial of me because to do otherwise would be suicidal as far as his tennis future is concerned," Hudson said. "But I am prepared to see this thing through, because it is about time amateur tennis was cleaned up, and I hope I may be the one to start the ball rolling."

Kovacs, playing in the eastern lawn championships at Rye, N. Y., said that Hudson's charges were ridiculous. "I don't owe Hudson anything," he said.

'Man Mountain' Dean's Off Politics, 'Too Dirty.'

NORCROSS, Ga. —(U.P.)—Man Mountain Dean announced today that politics had him down. He called off his campaign for a seat in the state legislature and his only ambition now is to get one of his ex-political opponents in a wrestling ring.

"I'd have slugged somebody sure if I'd stayed in any longer," he said. "I used to hear that wrestling was rough and dirty and crooked, but compared to politics, wrestling is child's play."

Champ Redskins Have Everything, Except Idea.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Coach Fay Flaherty of the Washington Redskins figures he has just about everything he needs for another professional football title — everything except ideas. Having signed Sammy Baugh to a three-year contract, Flaherty said today he was hard pressed for new pass plays for the Texas tosser, who pitched the Redskins to a world championship last season.

Practically every football team in the country knows our passes," the coach wailed.

CHICAGO — (AP) — After three years of running second, little Patty Berg of Minneapolis was a first-time winner today of the Women's Western Golf association 72-hole derby, longest medal play event sanctioned for women players in this country.

Miss Berg winged home far in front of her field yesterday, completing the four rounds in 308 strokes, a new tournament record.

Shows 'Em How

CHICAGO—(AP)—Turf experts said it couldn't be done, but Miss June Marks of Kenosha, Wis., had a $3,000 check today to show that an amateur handicapper could pick seven consecutive winners.

Miss Marks won the daily handicap contest at Washington Park yesterday by picking the winners in the first seven races. The $1,000 daily prize had tripled through carry-overs of previous awards this week.

Miss Marks not only picked the first seven races as required for the contest, but added the eighth. She played all her choices, which paid a total of $96.60 for eight $2 straight bets. But that wasn't all. Miss Marks also played her daily double selection and won $68.80 for a profitable $3,165.40 day at the races.

He's Through?

GROVE . . arm's dead.

Grove's Arm Again Goes Dead Against Athletics.

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Plagued by a "weary" pitching arm, Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove today was a pathetic figure as he sat on the sidelines realizing he would be of little or no use to the Red Sox for the remainder of the 1938 season.

Veteran of 14 major league campaigns, Grove, who has more victories in his record than any other active pitcher, even faces the possibility of seeing his brilliant career terminated by the sore arm For 38-year-old pitchers with troublesome arms seldom regain their prowess

Lefty, after making a brilliant comeback this season with 10 straight wins before a defeat, came up with a circulatory difficulty in his pitching arm while facing the Tigers, on July 14.

After submitting to treatment and taking nearly a month's rest, Lefty decided to give the arm a trial against the Athletics yesterday. The lanky southpaw lasted only two innings, during which time the A's scored one run. Finding his arm would not stand the strain, Grove stalked from the mound and walked disgustedly to the showers after hurling his glove into the dugout

The A's ultimately won the game 5 to 3 as George Caster pitched six-hit ball and Bob Johnson's 23rd homerun accounted for three runs Joe Vosmik hit for the circuit with two on for Boston.

The Yankees maintained their victory march by trouncing the Senators 9 to 6 although out hit 17 to 5. Joe DiMaggio's 21st home run with two on base aided Lefty Gomez in winning his 11th victory

Holding the Tigers to four hits, Monty Stratton won his 12th game as the White Sox got 12 hits off three Detroit pitchers.

In the only National league game, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 8 to 7 when Ernie Lombardi hit his 13th home run in the 14th inning Gene Schott was credited with his fourth victory while Larry French suffered his 16th loss

Basil Rathbone will wear a military cross for his role in "Dawn Patrol," and it won't be from the property department Rathbone served two and a half years in France with a Scottish regiment and won the cross for a day patrol job in No Man's Land. . . Howdy Folks!

The cheery "Hello Folks" of the Duke of Paducah, the fancy fiddlin' of Lily Mae, An't Idy Harper's cheerful chatter about Little Clifford, the Girls of the Golden West, the Owen Sisters, the Coon Creek Girls' band, Red Foley, Slim Miller and all of the folks that gather round the microphone of WLW on Saturday nights for the Renfro Valley Barn dance program, will be heard and seen today on the Madison theater stage where John Lair presents his hill folks. The Valley folks are in Mansfield for a two-day engagement and their regular Saturday night broadcast will go over the air waves from the theater at 9 p. m. The audience, however, will have to be in its places by 8:45, so there will be no confusion when the broadcast starts. It will be the first national program ever broadcast from a Mansfield theater.

But She Took It.

When lovely Ruth Hussey went to Los Angeles just a year ago with the road company of "Dead End," she walked up Hollywood boulevard, turned up a pert nose and said: "I wouldn't have this place if they gave it to me on a gold platter." But in less than six weeks she was signed to a contract with M-G-M, and one year later she is playing a leading role opposite Robert Young in "Rich Man, Poor Girl," the comedy of a rich man who wants to marry his secretary but finds her family a handicap Lew Ayres, who did a fine piece of work as the decadent brother in "Holiday," has another plum role as Cousin Henry who champions the Great Unwashed masses. It's at the Ohio.

Long Career Continues.

Hobart Bosworth, who has had a long career in motion pictures, starting at about the same time Mary Pickford and the Gish Girls were beginning to win recognition, is still to be seen occasionally in Western films. One of the greatest actors of his day, he now plays elderly men in the action films. He is seen at the Majestic today and Saturday in "Rollin' Plains," in which the cowboy star, Tex Ritter, plays the lead. The action takes place when a member of the Texas Rangers is sent into the grazing country to settle a feud between cattlemen and sheep ranchers. A second feature, "Mutiny Ahead," brings Neil Hamilton, another old time favorite, and Kathleen Burke.

Cowboy In Action.

With a new nest of bandits to clean out—and a nest of bandits is just so much meat for the Western hero—Bob Baker stirs up a mess of fast action in "Western Trails," opening today at the Ritz. With the inspiration of his father's murder to spur him on, the singing cowboy routs the bandits and avenges his father's death. There have to be complications in every well regulated Western film, and this time they are provided by the fact that the cowboy falls in love with the sister of the man he is out to get. "Beloved Brat," with Bonita Granville and Dolores Costello, rounds out the Ritz bill for the last two days of the week.

CRESTLINE—J. Frank Gelbach submitted to an operation at Emergency hospital Thursday morning.

MID-EUROPEAN 'PUTSCH' FEARS HANDICAP MART

Rumors Scare Brokers as Market Leans Backward Point or More.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market leaned backward fractions to a point or more today, although offerings dried up after a fairly lively opening.

Fears over what may happen on the Czechoslovak border, brokers said, tended to handicap speculative sentiment. All sorts of rumors of a forthcoming-middle-European "putsch" were heard in Wall Street.

The London gold price was boosted to a new high since November, 1936. Foreign currencies dipped in terms of the dollar.

Bonds inclined to slip and commodities were mixed. Export and scrap copper prices were reduced. Overnight business news was somewhat spotty.

Dun & Bradstreet blamed the heat wave principally for a drop in retail spending. Although summer goods distribution expanded, general sales for the country as a whole this week were placed at 4 to 12 per cent under the comparable 1937 period.

On the other hand, the federal reserve bank of New York, for the week ended Wednesday, disclosed a jump of $17,000,000 in commercial loans, the widest upturn in this item in many weeks. Brokers' loans also increased $25,000,000.

JIMMY ANSWERS ABOUT INCOME

'Some People Don't Care Whose Son I Am,' Roosevelt Says in Interview.

made certain new arrangements in his insurance partnership) his income sloughed off to $23,834.38.

About that 1937 income, Jimmy says this: "My lawyer assured me that it was perfectly proper to give my wife irrevocably—irrevocably, mind—no trick Indian giving or anything like that—to give her irrevocably one half of my one-half interest in the Roosevelt and Sargent corporation which would reduce my state tax and by a very small sum my federal income tax too. But it is a pretty small saving."

No Illusions on Worth.

Jimmy also revealed that he was an insurance company vice president at $15,000 a year when he was still a law student and "I had no illusions that as an insurance solicitor I was worth $15,000 on my ability alone."

He had gone to work, spare time, for Victor De Gerard, an insurance broker, for $25 per week. Summer came, Jimmy put in full time and drew $50 per week.

Says Jimmy "I brought him no business except what the family gave me. Oh yes, I insured my father-in-law's, Dr. Cushing's automobile, too."

But "things were not going too well for De Gerard when the Southern corporation came along. . . . Father had become a national figure. The name Rosevelt was likely to become an asset. See?"

Later he and John Sargent met, formed their own agency—Roosevelt and Sargent.

Johnston wrote that Jimmy has taken many policies right from under the noses of other brokers. Jimmy admits that his firm has landed some big corporations—on the merits of its policies but he also asks "you haven't heard, have you, of the times I've tried to see a fat prospect and was tossed out on my ear?"

Jimmy tried to insure Edsel Ford for $10,000,000 but didn't, lost out on the New York Central contract, on Tidewater Oil, on Paramount Pictures and on many others.

$18 A WEEK FOR JOHN

BOSTON—(INS)—While his oldest brother, Jimmy, was radio broadcasting and magazine writing that he averaged $665 a week during the past five years, John Roosevelt, youngest son of the president, was en route home from his Bermuda honeymoon today with an $18-a-week department store job waiting for him.

With his bride, the former Anne Lindsay Clark, of Nahant, John was expected back in Boston next Monday.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Alva Johnston, magazine writer who started the controversy over James Roosevelt's insurance business, commented on Roosevelt's reply in Collier's magazine today by quoting new figures "showing that his business boomed when he went to the White House as secretary to the president."

Johnston's original article in the Saturday Evening Post said that other insurance men estimated the president's son was profiting from $200,000 to $2,000,000 a year in commissions on insurance sold to firms which wanted President Roosevelt's good will.

"The statement of James Roosevelt is a plea in practically every respect except as to the size of his income. In that respect he is not doing badly. His figures indicate that his firm has obtained more than $50,000 in commissions from great corporations which, because of their relations to the government, are especially subject to political pressure. His figures show that his net income would have been more than $60,000 last year except that he split it for the purpose, so he admits, of avoiding higher income-tax brackets.

EAT STEAKS AS STORM BLOWS

'Lost' Fishing Party Snug on Lonely Island While Coast Guard Hunts.

storm lashed the lake all around us. There is neither radio nor telephone on the island and there was no way for us to communicate with the mainland.

"Of course we knew that our families would be worrying about us, but there wasn't anything we could do about it, lacking communication of any kind with the rest of the world."

Naturally, none of the party knew that the coast guards were hunting them.

"About 8 o'clock yesterday morning the coastguard cutter arrived. The crew took Rev. Young and Rev. Paetznick to Lakeside, and the rest of us came back to Sandusky in the speed boat, towing the disabled craft," Rev. Gilbert said.

The crew of the government boat spent the entire night looking for the Mansfield party and several others who also failed to make port before the storm.

"We were out all night, cruising an era of about 40 miles," one of the guardsmen told a News-Journal representative. "We touched on all of the small islands where there was no shelter, knowing that if, by chance, they had been able to make Pelee or Middle they would have found shelter. There was a chance, however, that they might be drifting somewhere.

"When daylight came we failed to sight them anywhere. Our last hope of finding them then, was at Pelee or Middle, so we headed for the latter, and pulled up alongside their craft at 8 o'clock. Their life preservers had been unpacked, but the men were all comfortable at the hotel."

Rev. Gilbert said, however, that at no time had the danger been great enough to make them don life preservers.

Despite the fact that his wife and his friends had been frantic with worry, Rev. Gilbert couldn't quite conceal the fisherman's delight in the experience.

"We had perfect fishing, a fine big catch, a good supper and a good bed at the end of the day—and congenial companians to talk over the day's big thrills. What more could a fisherman ask?"

Well, maybe a couple of boys to clean the fish after the fishermen came home!

ACTIVITIES OF NAZI BUNDS IN U.S. REVEALED

Reporter Who Became Storm Trooper Tells Story to House Committee.

Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo and Philadelphia.

"I told Kuhn that Bund post leaders in the west complained that some German consular officers failed to co-operate with them and that they had difficulty in their propaganda work. He became agitated.

"He said, 'after all, I was responsible for the removal of Dr. Luther and I have caused consular officers to be shifted at my will.' He told me that he had a secret relationship with the Nazi government in Germany to further the aid of the German-American Bund in the United States."

Names German Bureau.

Metcalfe said that a principal means of fostering Nazi aims in this country is the Auslands bureau, of Stuttgart, Germany. This foreign institute at the present time, he said, is manned by men who were former leaders of the Nazi movement in the United States.

Discussing the aims of the Nazi movement in this country, Metcalfe said.

"It must be borne in mind that in 1916, prior to the entrance of the United States into the World war, Germany had practically no espionage organization or sabotage machine in this country.

"It is to avoid a duplication of this mistake, that the bund has become active without even letting its own membership know the real purpose behind the movement so that they may be prepared for any eventuality that may arise such as a state of war with America or an effort to prevent the United States from delivering arms or supplies to a Nazi enemy."

Opposed All Democracies.

Metcalfe told the committee that he first joined a camp of the German-American bund in Astoria, Long Island, and advanced rapidly in the organization.

"I was told by the leader of the bund that it was opposed to all Democratic governments," said Metcalfe.

Metcalfe, who was born in Germany, told the committee that storm troopers in the bund are drilled along the lines of the German army and that no English is spoken during the drills.

He said that he never took an oath of fealty to Adolf Hitler, the German leader, as frequently charged in this country.

The witness then described in detail the ceremony by which he was inducted into the Astoria post.

"At a meeting at Astoria, in which everybody was uniformed, and the doors were locked, we were sworn in," he said. "There were six of us.

Describes Initiation.

"The fuehrer of the Astoria post explained before the ceremony that he was no longer permitted to give the oath of allegiance to Germany. Instead, he told us that we must give our word of honor which he said would amount to the same thing. The six of us were then lined up. The fuehrer stood between two flags—the American flag and the German swastika. There was not a word spoken at any time during the ceremony.

"We marched forward to the furious roll of drums. The fuehrer then placed the corner of the American flag in the palm of my hand with his hand and then he took the corner of the swastika and placed it in my hand on top of the American flag. We then gave the nazi salute and the nazi grip.

"He did that to all of us. It was the same in each case—the swastika on top of the American flag."

Among the subjects on which he will speak are "The Man of God," "The Talk of the Town," and "Law, Works, and Grace."

GET READY FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

County Leaders Announce New Central Committeemen to Meet Before Aug. 24.

vote was not completed at noon today. There were about a dozen precinct contests in the two parties.

Meanwhile the Republican state central committee set 1 p. m. Aug. 17 for reorganization of the state committee. Earl A. McFarland of Mansfield, was elected committeeman from this district at Tuesday's primary.

Conley and Hardy explained that when their two respective committees meet, officers will be elected and executive committees will be chosen and that the executive committees in turn will elect their own officers.

E. B. Kallmerten is Democratic executive chairman at present and Glenn L. Bierly is Republican executive chairman.

Both Kallmerten and Bierly are serving their first terms as chairmen. It has been the custom in the past for chairmen to serve two terms, party leaders explained.

Chairman Kallmerten's participation in the primary election as leader of Gov. Martin L. Davey's county campaign for the gubernatorial nomination, has given indications that there may be a contest on when Democrats meet to elect executive committee officers.

Kallmerten could not be reached today for a statement whether he will be a candidate for chairman again. Sawyer Democrats among party leaders, it was known, were somewhat vexed over Kallmerten's participation in the primary campaign.

Kallmerten, however, prior to the election, called upon Sawyer during the latter's visit to the city in July and told the candidate at that time:

"If you win at the primary I will be for you 100 per cent."

The two shook hands and Sawyer replied:

"If that's so you will be for me 100 per cent on Aug. 10 but the support I appreciate most is the kind that I get before Aug. 9."

Democratic leaders indicated that from now until September, work will be centered on getting campaign organizations perfected.

CARROLL CASE NEARING JURY

Prosecutor Starts His Closing Argument Without Calling Rebuttal Witnesses.

Oct. 13, the night of the murder, as he said he did, or whether he served it on the night of Oct. 12, the date stamped on it. Had the summons been dated Oct. 13, it would have substantiated part of Carroll's alibi. But Ingalls, in a final surprising gesture while cross-examining Carroll, pointed to the date Oct. 12 on the back of the summons.

Carroll stammered and explained that he "must have got my dates mixed up at the time."

The matter was left there, to the confusion of the jurors, who are all out-of-town men, especially picked because the crime that appalled this placid little town was too well known to the inhabitants for them to consider it impartially.

The case against Carroll was based mostly on the story of Dwyer, who pleaded guilty to the murder last December and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He said he had seduced Barbara Carroll, and later, because he was repentant, she had consoled him by saying that her father also had had relations with her. Dwyer said he told Dr. Littlefield about it, the doctor threatened to expose Carroll, and Carroll killed him.

The defense attorney, Clyde R. Chapman, blamed Dwyer for the killing. He made capital of five confessions, that Dwyer gave before he accused Carroll of the crime. Subsequently, Dwyer said he had "confessed" because Carroll threatened to kill him if he told the truth.

SETS DEADLINE ON SCHOOL ISSUE

WPA Gives City Until Oct. 1 to Provide Local Funds or Forfeit U. S. Grant.

lost Tuesday by just 410 votes of the total cast on the question.

Since Tuesday, Arlin said, board members have been literally besieged by persons urging a special election, and by others who volunteered to work for the issue in the event a special election is held.

"Thirty-eight persons, by actual count, have told me they favored the school bond issue but did not vote," Arlin said today. "Many others who planned to vote for the bond issue found they couldn't because they had failed either to register or transfer.

"I feel confident that in the event of a special election, those people—and there must be hundreds more in the same situation, of whom we know nothing — would vote for the school bonds, and that the issue would pass."

The PWA decision was given, it was indicated by Washington dispatches, because a number of Ohio cities found themselves in the same predicament as Mansfield—of having failed to provide local funds after the federal grants had been approved.

The following is the full text of the Associated Press dispatch covering the situation:

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Ohio communities which rejected bond issues for public works projects in Tuesdays primary must forfeit federal contributions unless local funds become available by Oct. 1.

This was decided today by PWA officials after restudy of an unusual situation arising from refusal of numerous cities to vote issues which would enable local project sponsors to share the cost as required by the 1938 public works-relief act.

Earlier the officials expressed belief Ohio projects could be held in suspension until further efforts had been made to raise local funds, perhaps through bond issue vote in the November election.

They explained today, however, PWA had adopted the policy of requiring earlier submission of applications for funds so that all projects could be under way by Jan. 1.

CRESTLINE—Dismissals from Emergency hospital include Mrs John Ganni and infant daughter of Bucyrus street and Mrs. Stanley Kime and infant daughter of the county line road.

Doug's Flying Sins Forgiven

Virtual assurance that there would be no further official penalty for his "wrong way" trip Ireland was given Douglas Corrigan when he conferred with Dennis Mulligan, left, chief of the bureau of air commerce, in Washington after a tumultuous reception by nearly 15,000 cheering spectators who lined the capital streets.

WPA MOVES TO AVERT STRIKE

Orders 2 Discharged Workers Re-assigned; 300 More to Be Put on Job Next Week.

in the past two years.

Commenting on Warren and Fish, whom he said had been discharged because of physical handicaps, Kelley said: "The men will be assigned to the county road project again and will have the opportunity to show that they are capable of doing the work to which they are assigned."

He said that their physical handicaps would be recognized in assigning them to jobs.

The Workers Alliance threatened today to call a strike on the job Monday unless both men were reassigned.

Warren Whelock, president of the union, charged the men were laid off without cause. WPA officials were notified this morning of the strike while they were conferring on the matter of Richland county assignments.

Charges made by the Workers Alliance that Philip Herzog, sixth district area engineer, was guilty of "intimidation, discrimination and disregard of rules and regulations, and for allowing political influence to govern the appointment of supervisors," were termed by Kelley as "unfounded."

Kelley said that a complete investigation of the political angle had been made in the past three weeks and that the charges against the engineer were "all false."

He said that Herzog would remain as engineer in charge of the district which includes Richland county.

HUNT RESIGNS SCHOOL POST

County Board Member Quits as Latest Development in Robinson Ouster Move.

due to "politics" and that he felt that the current Robinson ouster situation could be "better handled" with his own situation out of the way. He said he planned to continue efforts toward removal of the superintendent.

Hunt earlier said that he had been given a ruling by the attorney general by which he contended he was legally a member of the board. His membership was questioned because he now resides in Mansfield. His residence here is only temporary, Hunt said at that time and the attorney general's ruling held that because of temporary residence in the city, he could still retain his post.

Court attaches said that Judge Anderson will conduct a hearing this afternoon for the appointment of a successor to Hunt. The resignation abolished any indications of a contest at the hearing.

Meanwhile, a hearing on charges of malfeasance lodged against Robinson has been arranged for Aug. 27.

The ouster movement against the superintendent grew out of Robinson's alleged signing of application for $200,000 in PWA funds for the construction of a school in the Union township district. The Union district school board said it had made no plans for constructing a building.

BEGINS AUSDALE PAVING; BARTLEY JOB COMPLETED

Mansfield Firm Expects to Finish $12,700 Project Before School Opens.

The paving of Ausdale avenue from West Park boulevard to Linden road had been started today by the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company which was awarded the contract recently, on its low bid of $12,727.

Carl Stander, president of the firm said that workmen were engaged in excavating and laying forms today and that actual paving is expected to be started next week.

The concrete base will have to set for two weeks before the asphalt top is applied, Stander said. He expects to have the job completed before school opens in September.

City council last March appropriated $2,800 from the auto registration fee fund to meet the city's share of the cost while the balance is to be paid by property owners.

Opened to Traffic.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert announced that Bartley avenue, under construction for the past six weeks, was to be opened to traffic today.

A new concrete paving was paid on Bartley from Glessner avenue to Parkview street at a cost of $9,000. The city's share of the cost was $2,500 and the property owners are to be assessed $6,500.

Meanwhile the city board of control called for bids today on the paving of McPherson street from Lawnsdale street to Howard street. Styert said that bids on the construction work would be accepted at the office of the board until noon Aug. 29.

Specifications call for the paving of the street along with the construction of combination curbs and gutters.

Little Brown Jug Used By Foresters To Test Moisture

ST. PAUL—(AP)—Souvenir counterparts of the "Little Brown Jug," famed trophy of Minnesota-Michigan grid battles, are aiding foresters in producing vigorous tree seedlings essential to successful reforestation.

The little jugs, usually sold at Gopher-Wolverine games, are an essential part of a forest nursery moisture meter developed at the Lake State Forest experiment station to determine soil water conditions.

The unglazed jugs are placed in the ground about five inches deep, or in the zones of maximum root development of seedlings, and filled with water.

Passage of water from or into the somewhat porous jug, caused by an increase or decrease in ground moisture, indicates through variation in the height of a mercury column whether the round is "dry," "fresh" or "moist."

By being able to determine accurately the moisture content of soil at the roots of seedling trees, foresters are able to prevent injury from dryness which might not otherwise be detected until the trees begin to wilt.

SNAKE BATTLES STAGED

MARYSVILLE, Cal.—(U.P.)—Staged battles between rattlesnakes and king snakes constitute one of the high spots of Rod and Gun club picnic here. The king snake, natural enemy of the rattlesnake, usually maneuvers in such a manner that it can wrap itself around the rattler and squeeze it to death.

MANSFIELDERS ARRESTED IN TAVERN HOLD-UP

Trio Captured After Auto Leaves Road; Gunman Robs Gasoline Station.

An attempted tavern hold-up near Sandusky resulted in the arrest by Richland county authorities today of three Mansfielders as suspects. They were being questioned today by Erie county authorities at Sandusky.

Mansfield police, meanwhile, were hunting for a gunman who walked into a gasoline station at 343 Lexington avenue at 10 p. m. last night and robbed R. F. Betz, 347 Lexington avenue, proprietor, of $50.

The gunman entered the station while Betz was painting the floor. Flourishing a revolver, he pointed it at Betz and commanded, "Let's have it." The gunman took all the money except coins that were in the cash register, Betz reported.

Automobile Ditched.

In capturing the suspects in the Sandusky robbery, Sheriff E. P. Long and Deputy C. C. Gongwer arrested the trio after their automobile was ditched seven miles north of Mansfield on the Bowman street road early today.

The sheriff had been notified to be on the look-out for the trio. Two of them were arrested as they walked toward Mansfield and the third was taken into custody in the disabled automobile.

No charges have been filed against the trio. Nature of the charges to be filed will depend on a conference with the Erie county prosecutor, Erie officers said.

One of the up state deputies said one member of the trio "practically admitted the hold-up."

Two gunmen entered the tavern, known as Scherer's Beer Barn, and menaced the proprietor and a waitress with revolvers shortly after midnight, while their companion stayed in their get-away automobile outside, deputies here were told.

No loot was obtained, officers were told, because the approach of another automobile frightened the gunmen before they gained access to the cash drawer.

NO PARTY ISSUE

Farley Says Third Term Up to Roosevelt Himself.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich.—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, contends the party should leave the 1940 presidential field open until President Roosevelt signifies whether he will seek a third term.

Farley, guest of honor at a testimonnial dinner given by Michigan Democrats, told newsmen last night that "anybody who indicates his candidacy for the presidency before Roosevelt makes up his mind whether to run ought to have his head examined." He added that Mr. Roosevelt is "just as popular as he ever was."

The national chairman appealed in his address at the banquet for the retention of a New Deal congress and said earlier in a press conference: "It is my belief the administration will be entirely satisfied with the results of the house and senate races, which will be very disappointing to our Republican friends."

SECURITY ACT 3 YEARS OLD

Anniversary to Be Observed With 'Open House' Monday at Field Office Here.

The third anniversary of the Social Security act will be observed here Monday with "open house" at the board's field office in the Richland Trust building, R. G. Mish, manager, said today.

"While our office is always open to the public, we are extending a special invitation for Monday," Mish said.

The field offices will be open from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. Monday with a public meeting at 7:30 p. m. at which the Security act will be reviewed and Mish will conduct a question and answer session.

All 10 programs under the act have been placed in operation in Ohio in the last year, while 2,372,000 workers in Ohio have applied for social security account numbers under the old age insurance program. Mish said that 12,415 lump sum cash payments totaling $453,645 already have been made to workers who have reached the age of 65 years and to heirs of deceased workers in Ohio. The average payment in June was $50.78.

Under the Ohio unemployment compensation law, 1,719,000 workers have earned credit toward unemployment benefits which will become payable in January, 1939. Ohio now has a balance of $70,395,645 in the unemployment trust fund.

According to estimates of the Social Security board based on state reports for the past months, the total amount of payments to recipients from federal, state and local funds for public assistance in Ohio during July was estimated at $3,057,400, of which $2,533,000 was for old age assistance; $74,900 for aid to the blind, and $429,500 for aid to dependent children.

PLEAD GUILTY

2 Drivers Fined on Traffic Counts, 3rd Case Continued.

Two motorists arraigned in municipal court today for violation of the traffic code pleaded guilty and were fined a total of $35 while the case of a third was continued until next week.

Paul E. Taylor, Cleveland, charged with operating a motor vehicle with a license issued to another, was fined $50 and costs. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $40 of the fine.

Walter Williams, Mansfield, charged with failure to have an operator's license was fined $25 and costs when he pleaded guilty. James E. Marbot, Canton, charged with operating a motor vehicle that was overweight, was released on $100 bond after his case had been set for hearing on Aug. 17.

All three drivers were arrested last night by state highway patrolmen on U. S. route 42, north of Mansfield.

CHANGE IN EQUIPMENT FORCES DELAY IN PART OF WATER JOB

City officials today ran into another snag on the $75,000 water improvement—a snag that will delay a part of the project, the installation of pumping equipment at the Woodland reservoir, at least three weeks.

The delay came as the city board of control called for new bids on the installation of pumping equipment that will include some construction work at the reservoir pump house.

The board opened bids two weeks ago on two booster pumps to be installed at the station at the reservoir but withheld awarding the contract when the state department of health turned down installation plans on the basis that "certain valves" would have to be installed in the basement.

The pump house plans call for no basement but the health department agreed to construction of ducts in the pump house instead of a basement which was estimated would cost nearly $1,000.

Since then Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert has sought to have the ducts constructed at a cost less than $500 so the award could be made immediately without the need of advertising for bids. When estimates on the work figured higher than $500, Styert asked for new bids on the installation of the pumping equipment that would include the construction of the ducts.

Only three proposals were entered for the installation of the pumps with the Downing and Hetrick company, Columbus, low with a bid of $3,537.

Meanwhile Styert announced that the contract for the construction of the 150,000-gallon elevated storage tank which will be built at the reservoir was awarded to the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works, Chicago, lowest of two bidders. The Chicago firm's price of $14,790 was approximately $1,000 lower than the bid submitted by the Pittsburgh-Des Moines company of Pittsburgh, which bid $15,875.

Work on another section of the Woodland job under WPA was progressing on Cook road where 150 men are engaged in laying a new 20-inch main that will extend from the reservoir over Cook road and Lexington venue to Blanche street to bolster the pressure in the mercantile district.

BUTLER CELEBRATES AS SCHOOL BOND ISSUE'S GIVEN APPROVAL

BUTLER—News that the proposed bond issue amounting to $49,500 for the erection of a new high school building here had been approved by voters of the Butler school district resulted in a night of great "victory" celebration here Tuesday night.

When the vote from all precincts in the district revealed that the bond issue had received a 68 per cent approval, a huge bon fire was lighted in the village "triangle" where Butler students conducted a cheering section and community sing.

Later a parade of automobiles traversed the Butler community announcing the bond issue victory to the entire countryside.

As a result of the vote Tuesday Butler will erect a new $90,000 high school with the aid of a $40,500 grant of federal bonds.

In the election Butler village rolled up a vote of 282 for to 72 against the bond issue. Worthington township "B" registered 158 for to 96 against the bonds. A Brown township, Knox county, precinct returned a 12 to 3 margin for the issue.

Two precincts voted against the issue. Pike township, Knox county reported a vote of 57 to 45 against the issue, while a small section of the district in Jefferson township registered a 7-2 tally against the bonds.

The total was 499 in favor of the issue to 235 against it.

ROCKS CANTON

Bomb Set Off at Building Believed Housing Bookie.

CANTON—(AP)—Canton's downtown business section was rocked by a blast early this morning when a bomb exploded within a few blocks of the business district and public square.

The bomb had been placed in an alleyway alongside a building occupied by the Manufacturing Rubber and Supply company. An organization known as the Royal Order of Oaks occupied rooms on the second floor.

Reports that a bookie joint was operated in the building were neither denied nor confirmed by police. Captain William Grether, acting police head in the absence of Chief Ira Manderbaugh, said he had no comment to make until he had completed his investigation.

NEW CRISIS IN CITY-TOWNSHIP RELIEF LOOMS

Madison at 'End of String' as Levy Loses, City Considers Borrowing Plan.

Madison township's relief problem which has become acute in recent months because of the lack of funds, was as far away from a solution today as ever.

A one-mill relief levy on real estate property that would have raised approximately $54,000 annually was turned down by the voters at Tuesday's election.

Today, township officials, their funds exhausted and faced with unpaid relief bills totaling nearly $4,000, said they were at the "end of their string."

The city administration with its two-mill relief levy rejected, and faced with a $35,000 relief debt and depleted relief fund coffers, studied a borrowing plan that will provide funds for payments of bills for the balance of this year.

Will Re-Submit Issue.

At the same time Mayor Claude M. Hunter prepared to ask city council to re-submit on the November ballot the question of a two-mill relief levy which was voted down last Tuesday.

He explained that while the borrowing plan would provide funds only for this year, the administration had no guarantee for funds for the future.

The plan explained by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward calls for the issuance of notes against anticipated state taxes.

The emergency measure recently enacted by the legislature allows the sub-divisions to borrow up to 90 per cent on the anticipated receipts on beer, malt, wort, admissions and public utility excise taxes through to 1941.

Under this plan Richland county sub-divisions can borrow approximately $108,000, of which Mansfield might obtain $70,000, Ward said.

It appeared today that the 340 families on relief in the township would have to exist on the $1,000 that the township receives monthly from the state.

"We are absolutely at the end of our string," C. M. Chatlain, one of the trustees, said today.

"The relief load in the township has been cut to a minimum and we can see no way of raising relief funds now that the levy has been turned down."

Chatlain said that the only funds available for relief was the $1,000 that the township received from the state each month and that will be allotted to the 340 families on relief.

He explained that it would mean that each family regardless of size would probably only receive about $3 for food for the entire month.

Six weeks ago, township officials ordered a 50 per cent cut in all food orders in Madison township, anticipating that the relief levy would be put across at the election and that approximately $54,000 would be received.

ASKS ARREST

Earle Challenges Attorney to Serve Warrant.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Gov. George H. Earle, demanding that District Attorney Carl B. Shelley arrest him on charges fired in last spring's Democratic primary, today postponed for 24 hours a projected 10,000-mile airplane trip—to await the results of his challenge.

The delay, Earle said, would give "Shelley a chance to serve me with a warrant and back up his charges—if he wants to." Shelley is directing a proposed grand jury investigation.

The governor hurled the challenge in a radio speech last night.

Attorney Earl V. Compton, a Shelley assistant in the grand jury case, said the district attorney was on his vacation and doubted if there would be a statement from him.

ON PAROLE LIST

But Mansfielder Will Face Possible Deportation.

One Richland county inmate was among the four from Ohio penitentiary granted conditional releases by the Ohio board of parole, dispatches from Columbus said today. The board paroled 22 inmates and continued the cases of 102 other convicts.

The Richland county inmate is Martin Marko, alias Martin Zimmerman, who is to be released on condition after Oct. 1 to the federal authorities for deportation. If not wanted the case is to be continued until August, 1940.

Marko was sentenced to the penitentiary Sept. 4, 1935, to serve from one to 20 years for manslaughter in connection with the death of Jessie Metcalf whom he was alleged to have beaten during an argument. Common pleas court records fail to show the country of his birth.

60 AT KIWANIS PICNIC

A chicken dinner was served to 60 members of the Kiwanis club and their guests last night at the annual picnic held at the Mt. Zion church, east of Lucas. A sports program preceded the outing. Arrangements were in charge of Barney Ford and Paul Elliot and replaced the regular weekly luncheon meeting.

GALION PUSHES PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOL EDIFICE

Bids on $98,000 Structure to Be Opened Aug. 17; Set Year's Calendar.

GALION—Problems of the first steps toward the construction of a new $98,000 school building in the east district of Galion, besides hiring of several teachers and arrangements for the 1938-1939 school program, faced the Galion board of education at its August meeting Thursday night.

The school calendar for 1938-1939 was approved by the board, with school to open Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 1 p. m. A conference of principals and Superintendent O. E. Hill will be held Aug. 30. Other conferences of principals and teachers are slated for Tuesday morning. A two-day Thanksgiving vacation will be given, with Nov. 25th to be made up on Washington's birthday. Christmas vacation will extend two weeks from Dec. 23 to Jan. 9, and a spring vacation will be given from March 31 to April 10. Commencement will be held June 2, 1939.

With the passing of the $54,000 bond issue at the August primaries as the school's share for a new East building, the board decided to receive and open bids for the proposal of the purchase of the Galion school bonds on Wednesday morning Aug. 17 at 10 o'clock.

Protest Railroad.

Three representatives from the East school district were present at the board meeting to voice their opinion against building the school east of the Erie railroad tracks. Isador Block addressed the board. It was decided that each board member will inspect various sites in the east section of the city for the new building.

The date for the public hearing of the budget was set for Wednesday, Aug. 24.

Resignations of Miriam Ransdell Ruth, girls' physical education teacher, and James Snyder, Junior high industrial arts instructor, were received by the board and accepted. Miss Ransdell was recently married and Snyder will teach part time in connection with the Ohio State training school at Canal Winchester.

Ralph T. Telfer of Lakewood, Ohio State graduate, was appointed to fill Snyder's vacancy.

Edward Garverick of Galion was appointed principal at the North school. Garverick was graduated from Ashland college.

The appointment of Robert Holloway of Findlay, Ohio State graduate, to the position in the high school as teacher of vocational subjects and mathematics, was approved by the board.

Claude B. Carleton of 719 Harding way west was appointed temporarily as janitor at the North school for a 90-day probation period.

PATCHING THE ROOF

A YOUNG neighbor came today to patch our barn roof. It rained last night, and the roof was slippery at the time he started. With some trepidation, he climbed, barefooted, to the comb, and hooked his ladder over the angle of the ridge. When this was done, he worked more easily, carrying up a bundle of shingles to the top, taking his hammer and nails.

Last March a heavy gale tore through this section of the country, and scattered shingles all about the garden and nearby field. On the south side, an owl or crow, or even an eagle, might have flown into our barn right through the roof, with room to spare. During the spring rains, the floor and timbers were drenched. Straw rotted in the mow, and water soaked and dripped down to the stable far beneath.

It is a comforting sound to hear the steady tap, tap of the youth's hammer, driving home the nails that hold the new cedar shingles in place. I went inside the barn and pointed out the slits the light shone through, while he, above, fitted a new shingle in to stop the opening. The roof is already speckled on one side with yellow blotches where the holes have been.

From where he sits, high on the steep incline, the boy can look across the countryside. The sun is shining bright upon his hair, and tanning his shoulders yet a deeper bronze. He moves with all the agile ease of youth and confidence. His father is a roofer, and from earliest memories, he has learned this trade.

Tap, tap! After today the summer rains will not rot out our barn. Tap, tap! After today the wind will not tear more shingles loose, and sail them uncertainly toward the ground.

"Keep the roof and you keep the building," is the old, true saying. After today, our barn will be whole again.

$186,000 DUE IN DELINQUENT RICHLAND TAXES

Auditor Tells Board Studying Problem Money's Owed on 5,000 Parcels.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe today estimated that $186,000 is due in delinquent taxes on 5,000 parcels of Richland county real estate.

His estimate was contained in information the auditor supplied the Ohio Delinquent Tax commission which Gov. Martin L. Davey appointed to study the delinquent tax situation and submit recommendations for legislation to solve the problem.

Wolfe informed the commission that out of the 5,000 delinquent parcels, unpaid taxes on 1,600 of them are being paid under the Whittemore law which provides for installment payments.

2,000 Face Foreclosure.

Approximately 2,000 others have been certified for tax foreclosure sales. The auditor explained that 80 per cent of these were vacant lots, many of them unwanted and "not worth the taxes due."

He reported that during 1937 there were 250 tax foreclosures filed and the property sold through court order.

Wolfe said that the drive to collect unpaid assessments here has materially reduced Richland county's delinquency figure and has resulted in a general paying up of taxes along with forced sales.

In commenting on the state commission's work, the auditor pointed out that Richland county is now carrying out many of the policies which the commission has advocated, especially in the county's efforts in resorting to legal action to obtain payments.

Mrs. Happy Chandler thinks politics is no place for a man "suffering from a psychopathic case of honesty"—and, anyhow, such a politician could probably make more in a side show.

Other Cities Approve School Bonds.

WHILE a minority of Mansfield voters mustered sufficient strength at Tuesday's election to defeat the school bond issue, it is interesting to note that in a number of other Ohio cities above 65 per cent of the voters were more considerate of the safety, health and educational opportunities of their public school children.

Our neighboring small city of Galion, for instance, approved a school bond issue of $54,000 to match a $44,182 federal grant for erection of a new east-side grade school building, by a vote of 1,414 "for" and 715 "against," or 66.4 per cent favorable.

Loudonville school district passed a school bond issue for $93,000 as the district's share in securing federal funds for a school improvement program. The vote was 836 to 235.

Fostoria's $450,000 public school expansion program required passage of a $247,000 bond issue and this was done by a vote of 2,303 for the issue and only 766 against it.

By a 69 per cent majority Massillon voters approved a $473,000 school bond issue and will receive a federal grant of $387,000 for public school improvements.

Voters in Steubenville school district approved a $500,000 bond issue for erection of a new senior high school, thus qualifying for a federal grant of $410,000. The vote was 5,201 for and 2,771 against.

Congratulations are due these, and other cities, towns and townships of Ohio in which more than 65 per cent of the voting population evidenced recognition of an obligation to provide safe and adequate public school facilities for their school children.

Encouraging Incident.

THERE has been so many instances of persons preferring to stay on relief instead of trying to find a job of some kind that one incident along the opposite line is quite cheering.

A news item from a large city tells of a Negro taxi driver who obtained $50 from a relief agency to tide him over during illness. When he went back to work he started to repay the money. Told that he was not obligated to do this, he replied: "That was the way I was raised—and that's the way I'm raising my child."

There are many deserving recipients of relief—but there are also some others who regard it as entirely proper to accept relief without recognizing any obligation to pay it back or to do any work in exchange.

Public care for the worthy poor, and for those unemployed who are able, anxious and willing to work, should not be permitted to develop into a political machine that encourages "relief bums" who regard relief as a legitimate "profession."

The example set by the Negro taxi driver referred to above might well be followed by idlers who think that somebody owes them a living.

A Boy Without a Chance.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT was the sentence meted out yesterday to Lindbergh Trent, the 15-year-old Cincinnati boy who admitted the brutal killing of a 6-year-old girl last May.

Here is a case in which tainted heredity and frightful environment conspired to produce a boy who had access to no antidote for the virus of degeneracy, criminality and loose morals with which he was inoculated.

All the sordid details were bared during the trial—illegitimacy of the boy's birth; a drunken step-father; divorce; marriage of his mother to another drunkard who mistreated her and the boy; surroundings of squalor, filth and destitution.

Now the boy—who should never have been born—goes to the penitentiary for life.

A Mansfield man tells of being startled, recently, by seeing a group picture of about thirty young men—taken in this city around twenty years ago. Three who were in that group have since been electrocuted for murder, he says.

Heavy responsibility rests upon those who bring children into the world—and upon the cities that provide environment for those children as they are being reared.

Peaceful Navy.

THE United States coast guard is 148 years old. It celebrated the anniversary of its founding the other day by holding open house on coast guard vessels. Established, before the country had any other navy, by Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton for the purpose of suppressing piracy, the coast guard has fulfilled its first task well and added many new ones. Today its service includes the rescue of passengers and crew in shipwreck, salvage of cargo, maintenance of an iceberg patrol in the shipping lanes, destruction of derelicts that might become a menace to navigation, protection of seals and fisheries, aiding in time of big floods, fighting as part of the navy in wars.

Here is an agency of government which serves efficiently in a great many ways. It is a small navy that holds no threat to any foreign land. The finest traditions of the sea and of the courage and resourcefulness of seamen are bound up with the coast guard.

What! No Circus?

THE Circus Fans association, organized at Madison, Wis., is out with petitions to which it hopes to get 500,000 signatures. These are petitions to the president asking him to do whatever he can to start circuses to rolling again. Circus fans all over the country know that the aspect of America is far from right when the big top is folded and all the animals and human performers have retired to winter quarters in the middle of the summer.

Probably nothing can be done about it this year, but boys and girls of all ages—including grandparents—hope the circus can start off next season with business as usual.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Once upon a time there was a famous statesman who wished in vain that his enemy had written a book. Then he would have had an opportunity to confound his enemy with inconsistencies, with glaring misstatements, with changes of front, and with everything that can happen to a man who has written a book.

But the Republican national committee has beaten that idea to a shell. The committee has written a book for their enemy—President Roosevelt. It is a trim little affair bound in green paper and labeled "Quotations From Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

As a foretaste of what is inside, there is a quotation from Benjamin Franklin: "Saying and doing have quarreled and parted."

Now President Roosevelt has had "book trouble" before. When the supreme court fight was in progress, Senator Wheeler picked up a book the President published in 1933 entitled "On Our Way." From it he extracted condemnation of any idea of "packing" the supreme court by adding new members with a view of obtaining a change of decisions.

Senator Wheeler read quantities from the book into the record in launching his attack against the court revision bill.

Aimed at Campaigners.

THE new book put out by the Republican national committee helps out those who might not have been so well posted on these things as Senator Wheeler. It has an index and a cross-index on where to find what the president said on this and that, on any asserted changes of attitude, and the like.

"Some quotations were selected which appear to be excellent arguments for the New Deal, all its theories and all its works," says a note in preface. 'They set forth in ringing terms social objectives which no man could honorably disavow. They can be used by skillful campaigners as yardsticks for New Deal promises by which to gauge the performance of the New Deal in its many and varied fields of experimentation.

"Other quotations were selected for use in refuting the arguments of the allies of the president in his own language. Thus we have included statements of the soundness and permanence of the economic recovery of 1935 and 1936 so heavily relied on by the administration in its successful battle for votes in the last presidential election. Administration claims for credit for recovery are especially useful in fixing responsibility for the Roosevelt depression, for in the words of the president, 'We planned it that way.'"

(The book probably was on the press before there was time to get a few quotations to explain the current upturn on the stock market.)

Glee for the Partisan.

HERE is a knick-knack, also from the preface:

"Statements are included which show administration favor to special groups, disfavor to others, all instilling class hatred, formerly unknown in this country."

And another:

"Many manifestly misleading or unfair statements will be found in the record."

Reading the thing, you get a picture of some harried partisan poring over it in a hot hotel room around midnight. He finds just the thing. Ah, how he'll pillory the president before the awed Mothers' Sewing club! And next day, loaded for bear, he sort of sneaks up on them by leading off with:

"Unprepared as I am to speak to this intelligent gathering of leading women,"—etc.

GIVE IT BOTH BARRELS

Mention Dewey For Presidency, 'If'

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Republican politicians are increasingly talking of Thomas E. Dewey as G.O.P. presidential possibility in 1940.

Thomas Dewey

The suggestion, however, is qualified by a conspicuous "if." Two "ifs," in fact.

If Dewey, as district attorney of New York county, succeeds in convicting James J. Hines, prominent Tammanyite, of tampering with New York judges and other officials, in an effort to protect the late "Dutch" Schultz's "policy racket," it is forecast that the then victorious prosecutor almost certainly will be named by the Empire state Republicans as their candidate for the governorship. That is one "if"—if Dewey convicts Hines.

If he convicts Hines and is nominated for the governorhip, he will need to be elected in order to rate as presidential material. If he does convict Hines, is gubernatorially nominated and then is beaten for the Albany state house his defeat will flatten him out presidentially. That is the second "if"—if Dewey is elected governor of New York.

HAS HIS POINTS

Presidentially speaking, Dewey has his candidatorial points geographically.

He is not the type of New Yorker who does not realize that the United States extends somewhat to the westward of the Hudson river. He has lived in Manhattan long enough to satisfy eastern prejudice, but he is a transplantation there—from Michigan. The west is entitled to claim him, too.

He is not particularly identified with the New Deal, either.

New Dealerishness is the weakness of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York City, who also is a bit presidentially mentioned as a Republican White House hope. Like Dewey, La Guardia is only an adopted New Yorker. He was born and grew up in Arizona and knows as well as Dewey that this country has a west. Moreover, he has toured the west recently, maybe hinting that he was trying to cultivate it politically. Likewise he has held office under the Republican label off and on.

But every time La Guardia is Republicanly presidentially proposed conservative Republicans answer, "No sir, he's a 'red'."

SEEN AS NON-PARTISAN

Personally I do not think that La Guardia is, indeed, a "red."

Still, there is consistency in the Republican claim that he is not much of a Republican. He avowedly is in sympathy with the New Deal. He therefore would be a peculiar presidential selection for Republicans who want an anti-New Deal candidate. Incidentally he served a term or two in congress as a Socialist. He is identified now with the American Labor party. He is a fusionist when occasion serves.

The truth is he is non-partisan.

All this is all right "by me," but I can see why old-line Republicans (or Democrats) wouldn't choose him as their standard bearer.

Dewey, as yet, seems to be regularly Republican enough.

SOME POSSIBILITIES

If the Democrats were to nominate compartively conservative Bennett Champ Clark in 1940 and if the Republicans were to nominate La Guardia the voters would have a selection between two opposing philosophies.

But if the Democrats renominate "F. D." or nominate some other New Dealer and the Republicans nominate La Guardia, conservatives will have nowhere to go.

Of course the Republicans could nominate, say, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan. Vandenberg, if you ask me, would be a mighty good president—liberal but not overly radical; reasonably cautious but no Tory. However, I have my doubts that he has the qualities to make a formidable run.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Thirty Dollars Every Thursday.

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University.

"Hopefully they clapped their bony hands and chewed their gum, and hopefully they straggled into the night. All over southern California this goes on—and on." Thus ended an account by Thomas L. Stokes, Scripps-Howard staff correspondent of a new "$30-every-Thursday" scrip money movement in southern California!

"In immediate interest," says Stokes, this plan "has superseded the Townsend plan, but the old people can be loyal to both—for the $30 every Thursday would come from the state government, while it is the federal government which would issue the $200 a month under Dr. Townsend's scheme."

According to the Stokes' report this recent monetary scheme, by which all these good people hope to get something for nothing, would involve the use of scrip to which a 2 per cent stamp would be attached each week to force its circulation. In 52 weeks $1.04 of stamps would be attached to each dollar of scrip currency; $1 of stamps would "retire" one dollar of currency, and the 4 cents would be for administrative expenses.

It is not necessary to go into the details of the plan further; this type of scheme has been proposed before, and it is a piece of hocus pocus. Basically, its aim is to increase spending. It would do that, but it would also destroy savings, inflate prices, and bring about various other sad results. A currency will circulate rapidly if people know it will depreciate in their hands. A depreciation of 2 per cent per week or 104 per cent per year is a heavy depreciation, and such currency, like any bad currency, would be spent rapidly.

As to the other impractical and foolish aspects of the proposal, nothing need be said at this time. A little concentration of thought and the use of a little simple arithmetic should make clear the flaws in this latest species of money magic. Of course, one should know something about money, or the hocus pocus involved might be missed even by those who can do a little in simple arithmetic and follow through the various steps involved in such childish magic. Then, of course, it would be well to read the United States Constitution to see whether a state can legally issue such currency!

But the interesting aspect of the question is why these crazy money scheme pop up in California and there find such a fertile soil in which to thrive. There was the Townsend scheme which people cannot quite bring themselves to bury. Then there was the Upton Sinclair EPIC group. Now comes this "California State Retirement Life Payments Act — Thirty Dollars Per Week for Life!"

What is it about California that makes these things possible? Is it the water? Or the air? Or the sunshine? Have the immigrants, who have gone from other states to California to retire, later found themselves broke and badly in need of money in their old age? This last probability may provide a large part of the explanation. In any event, these developments reflect badly upon the level of intelligence of a large number of people in the good state of California.

There are still other questions. Why do people flock to men unknown in the monetary field—to men without any respectable credentials as authorities on money—for their monetary doctrines? Do these same people flock to medical quacks when there are reputable physicians at their elbows? Do they not realize that in California's many college and universities, and in many banks there are trained and reputable men thoroughly competent to explain and handle such monetary questions? Don't these good people ever pause to inquire why these experienced, competent, and honest monetary economists do not come out and approve the $30 per week-stamped-money scheme of Sherman Bainbridge, or the $25-every-Monday-morning scheme of Robert Noble?

Mr. Stokes reports that these hopeful, gullible people are said to be paying $1300 per week into the tills of these new peddlers of this variety of money magic. What a tragedy! Can't these people see that large sums of money were paid into the Townsend tills with nothing tangible received in return? How many lessons like this must they have before they will learn?

One of the earmarks and tragedies of depressions and hard times is the prolific growth of these magic money schemes. They always spring up, and they always fail. But the tragedy is that, along with all the other suffering which people experience, they add to their distress by throwing their small savings at the feet of these monetary quacks and charlatans. But hope springs eternal in the human breast, and it is clear that these victims in California are full of hope. In the words of Stokes "All over southern California this goes on—and on."

A blue Monday lies ahead. A day will arrive when all these hopeful people will realize that they have fallen into the hands of quacks. Then perhaps they will wish they had paused to consider the simple question, Why not go to reputable and trained men for guidance on monetary matters?

Can't See the "Progress."

Editor News-Journal:

I have just finished reading your editorial of tonight (Wednesday, Aug. 10) and would like you to explain in an early issue what you mean by "this otherwise progressive city."

I have lived in Mansfield eight years and haven't seen anything progressive as yet.

1—That railroad station is a prize.

2—What a court house!

3—Those 20-year-old fire wagons.

4—School buildings falling down.

5—That "bridge" at the end of Rowland avenue, to the north end of town.

6—Traffic jams around Central park.

Mansfield may have been progressive 60 years ago—but not now.

Perhaps you have a different idea of "progress" than I have. Will you please explain.

Listen, World!

Needed—Some Public Manners.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

TO THE MOVIE OPERATORS OF AMERICA—

I'm sick of it. So are several million other decent, American citizens who respond to the nobler things of life and believe that beauty should be shown public respect. Meaning—in plain American—that we like good movies... that we cherish their high moments of beauty and drama... and that we are plenty peeved when hoodlums and fatheads are allowed to spoil those moments, as they are at present. Wherefore we suggest you do something about it—pronto!

I submit, as an example, the current showing of a splendid picture. No film should mean more to an American audience than this particular one. It is not only acted with consummate skill, but it portrays a most poignant moment in our national history . . . an incident so courageous, so self-sacrificing, so infinitely touching, that it should move every spectator to reverential tears.

All of which, gentlemen, you must have realized and counted on when you made that picture at the cost of many thousands of round dollars. But what happened when this noble film was eventually revealed? This is what happened.

Three men sat in a room. They were young men—sleek and supple with passion and power of youth . . . warm with its dreams and desires. Three young men, shaped for romance and adventure. Yet for six days they had been sitting in a room, whose horror defied the foulest hell. And Terror had been sitting with them.

You could see it in their straining, staring eyes. You could see it in their grinning, blistered lips over which their dry tongues flickered . . . like the tongues of cornered beasts. You could see it in their fingertips . . . pluck-pluck-plucking at blood stiffened blankets, at filth-smeared pillows, at glasses ridged with an awful grime.

Terror sat with those men—and it was little wonder. For men had writhed, in the death convulsion, under those blankets, on those pillows . . . men had spilled out their lives on those crusted glasses.

AND NOW THREE YOUNG MEN SAT, OF THEIR OWN ACCORD, IN THAT DREADFUL, DEATH-DRENCHED ROOM, SEEKING TO DISCOVER THE SECRET OF THAT DEATH!

In all American history there is no nobler, no more heart-rending incident than this ghastly ordeal under which those three young men risked their lives voluntarily—that others might be saved. In all human progress, there is no incident which should draw the spirit more surely to its knees . . . which should more certainly inspire even the most stupid and ignorant of men . . .

But what actually happened when the film unrolled? Were there not tears? Was there that reverent silence which should inevitably come when Man kneels in communion with God and partakes of the Divine Fire?

YES—THERE WAS NOT!

To the contrary, there were snickers—guffaws . . . hip slappings, rib punchings! So certain individuals responded to the most exalted act in its own history!

Nor is this an isolated instance. I am a constant movie attendent. But seldom have I seen a moment of heart-wrenching pathos or heart-lifting courage which was not marred by such outrageous exhibitions. And so, in the name of decency, I appeal to you American movie operators . . . I appeal to my fellow American columnists—

LET US DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS THING!

LET US RISE IN PROTEST AGAINST SUCH DEGRADATION OF OUR AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE AND OUR AMERICAN DECENCY! LET US TELL THESE VULGAR, STUPID HOODLUMS WHERE TO HEAD IN!

For you Movie Operators of America, I suggest that you prepare an announcement to be run whenever such hooliganism starts. Saying briefly—"YOU ARE IN THE PRESENCE OF A BEAUTIFUL AND NOBLE HUMAN ACT. IF YOU CANNOT APPRECIATE IT, EITHER BE SILENT OR GET OUT INTO THE GUTTER WHERE YOU BELONG."

And for you American Columnists, I ask—"GET BEHIND THIS REQUEST! YOU, MORE THAN ANY OTHER GROUP OF CITIZENS, SHOULD UNDERSTAND AND RESPECT HIGH PHYSICAL COURAGE, SPIRITUAL BEAUTY. THEN GIVE YOUR TALENT TO PROTECT AMERICAN FINENESS AGAINST THE GUFFAWS OF GOOPS! HELP ME BY BROADCASTING YOUR SCORN AS I HAVE BROADCAST MINE!"

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Have to go now, I'm leaving for New Orleans in just a few minutes, just as soon as these bags are packed. . . . I'm pretty excited. . . . It's been a long time since I walked down Canal street . . . Almost 11 years, and that's too long.

For days now I've been thinking about crayfish, and the old French market, and the river. . . . And there are 50 things I want to do, and 50 people I want to see. . . . I want to see Marguerite Clark, and Roark Bradford, and Herman Deutsch, and Lyle Saxon. I want to stroll along the old street of the duelling academies, and look in on that prize-fighter's museum, and visit the Absinthe House, and look at those rooms where Lafcadio Hearn wrote so movingly of New Orleans.

I want to get on a Dauphin street car and ride to the end of the line . . . I want to see the old Napoleon House, and tiptoe through the Cathedral of St. Louis. And drink coffee in any of the 27,000 cafes and restaurants there, virginal coffee that looks like sacramental wine.

I WANT to see the statue of Jackson—not Andrew Jackson but Stonewall Jackson, the one where the priest came and said those words that sad Tuesday when the statue was unveiled. You know that story, don't you? You want to hear it? They say on that day an unknown priest shuffled out of the crowd and asked permission to say a few words. And this is what he said:

"O Lord, when Thou decreed that the Confederacy should fail, it first became necessary for Thee to remove Thy servant, Stonewall Jackson."

Those were words that Lincoln could have been proud of. I want to see that statue. I want to stand where that priest stood and say a Protestant prayer for his Catholic soul.

I want to go down to the docks at night, and smell the fruit wharves, and listen to the song of the lonesome bayous. I want to feel Spanish moss, and see cypress knees, and eat pompono with Seymour Weiss at Antoine's . . . I want to taste mayhaw jelly again . . . I'd give a dollar for one spoonful of mayhaw jelly right now . . . I want to eat muscadines and wild fox grapes and ride in a handmade pirogue.

I WANT to stand in some ruined garden and smell the cape jessamines . . . And scratch my name on a magnolia leaf and watch it turn black . . . I want to eat ripe persimmons and cut myself a palmetto fan. I want to listen to a mocking bird again.

I want to visit the site of that old underground jail where the Spanish fathers practiced the Inquisition, as described by Saxon so eloquently in "Fabulous New Orleans" . . . I want to visit that part of New Orleans where Jean LaFitte held sway, as described by Hervey Allen in "Anthony Adverse."

My friends tell me I'm silly for going to New Orleans this time of year. They think I ought to wait till fall or winter "because it's so hot down there."

Well, let's see how it is around here. The little agate lines on the front page of the newspapers say it is 92 today. And people here no longer breathe—they pant.

So I guess I'll be going anyway. And if it isn't hot down there I'll be mighty disappointed. I like it hot. When summer comes I want it to be summer.

Dogs And Vocabularies.

Dr. Wilfred J. Funk, the dictionary publisher, has been experimenting with canine vocabularies for a change, and reports that the average dog has a word list of 60, which is about the same as that of a baby a year and a half old.

In former years Dr. Funk has amused himself by picking thet en amused himself by picking the ten most beautiful words or the ten most "overworked" words, selections which brought upon him a lot of rough comment by persons who could not agree. It is hardly likely that the same storm of controversy will greet his list of ten words best known to dogs which, with their alternates, are as follows: 1, talk, speak or bark; 2, quiet or hush; 3, wait or stop; 4, heel, down or sit; 5, up or stand; 6, goodby or by-by; 7, quick; 8, bed; 9, eat; 10, siccum. Every dog owner will immediately claim that his dog knows all of these and more too, and Dr. Funk believes that trick dogs can be made to learn 250 words.

This interesting experiment should inspire dog owners to make a similar list of the vocabularies of their pets. Dr. Funk's standard of 60 sets an intelligence test by which to measure Rover's I. Q. They might try him out on "muzzle."—St. Paul Dispatch.

TWO WORLDS + + +

CHAPTER 14

"Cocktails," Julian said. "'Pink ladies' to be exact. You see, in my present state of near-intoxication, I daren't risk anything stronger." He filled two paper cups, handed her one, then said: "Here's to our next picnic. May it be soon."

"May it be—sooner," Noel rejoined.

Julian finished his drink, tossed the cup away. After which ,he said abruptly: "Noel, I want dreadfully to kiss you, but I'm quite certain for my own peace of mind that I shouldn't. What do you think?"

It was a minute before Noel completely recovered her aplomb when Julian suddenly asked her what she thought about his kissing her. "Two people have been known to kiss before, and no international crisis has ensued," she said at last lightly.

"But they weren't you and I, my dear," Julian answered, his voice low and serious. "For I know good and well," he continued, "if I kiss you once, I shall certainly do it again, always provided your objections are not too strenuous — and if I kiss you again, I most certainly shall—but why go on?"

He stopped then, took her in his arms and held her very close, then pressed his lips against hers.

It was only a moment, and yet it was an eternity before he released her. And then he turned and walked a little way from her and stood with his face turned toward the smiling sun, which was now high in the noon-day sky.

Noel sat quietly on the sand, her blood racing tumultously through her veins.

Julian turned at last and came back, his face quite composed. He would not kiss her again, Noel knew. He was a man who had his emotions well under control. But he had held her in his arms once, he had pressed his lips with hunger against hers! Noel knew she would always have this one exquisite memory to hug to her heart.

Too soon the rest of the day passed. They ate the nice lunch from the De Luxe, walked about the sand bar, even penetrated into the thickness of the woods, where the violets grew in lovely profusion. Noel did not know that wild flowers could be so pretty. But she did not want to gather any of them. "Better to let them remain in their native soil, and they will live longer," she said

"You're a wise girl," Julian commented. "Wild flowers are like hothouse flowers. They soon die if they're gathered or transplanted. And if they live by any chance after being removed from their natural environment, they lose their fragrance." There was a world of meaning in Julian's voice.

"That isn't altogether true," Noel retorted.

Then they were back at the De Luxe, had a light dinner, and Julian had to go. He had studying to do, he told her, and Noel had no reason in the world to doubt his word, but womanlike, her thoughts went instantly to Ruth Chester.

She waited until Laurie was ready to go home, and they walked back together and were soon in bed.

Noel dreamed that Julian kissed her again, and the dream-kiss was fraught with almost as much magic as the real one had been. But in the dream, when Julian released her from his arms, she had lifted her eyes to see Ruth Chester standing there, a mocking smile on her face. And she had said in that beautiful rich voice of hers, "Julian kisses quite beautifully, doesn't he, my dear?" And then Noel was awakened.

She told herself happily that the part in her dream about Ruth Chester belonged only to the unreality of dreams. But Julian's kiss had been real. Its memory was still vividly so.

"Oh, my dear, my dear," she murmured to herself, "I love you with all my silly, dreaming heart."

And then it was morning, time to dispense with dreams and face the problems of the day.

Now that Laurie was at work, finances were much easier. Laurie, in her earnest way, had insisted that Noel accept at least a small part of the money she had loaned her. Now for the first time since she had started on the adventure, Noel had a few dollars in her purse that didn't have to be spent for immediate needs. It gave her a good feeling, a new optimism. Tomorrow surely, if not today, she'd find another place and could leave Luigi's forever.

There was always the chance of meeting someone she knew, even though she didn't have very many friends in this flourishing southern city, because she had spent such little time here since her childhood.

But tonight the very thing she had feared happened. Looking over the shoulder of her partner, Noel saw Dick Graham and Sally Chenowith, with a party. By rights they should both be in Europe. But she decided they were probably on their way to Miami and stopped over here for a day and a night. They lived in New York City.

Noel had to think fast, for Sally's eyes were sweeping the room with a soft of avid yet scornful curiosity. They would call themselves slumming, of course.

There wasn't a chance in the world that they wouldn't recognize her, if they should see her. So Noel hurried to the dressing room, determined to stay there until she was sure Dick and Sally had gone.

She picked up her powder puff and idly ran it over her small nose. Then she sat down and let 10 or 15 minutes go by.

Suddenly a voice spoke from the door. "What's the matter? Did you see a ghost?" It was Nick. He was standing there staring at her, a light in his pale eyes.

"No, of course not," Noel retorted. She picked up the powder puff again and dusted her face.

Luigi came in, closing the door softly behind him "Something happened. I could tell it by your face."

"I tell you it—wasn't anything. I just needed some powder," Noel insisted.

"Anybody try to get fresh?" he demanded, his voice making a little hissing sound through his tight lips.

"No—no," Noel hastened to say.

Luigi edged closer. "If anyone does, you're to tell me at once." He was so close, Noel could see that there was a flush on his rather swarthy face.

Suddenly he took another step nearer, then the next thing his arms closed around her and he had her in a close embrace. Noel struggled furiously, twisting her head first one way, then the other, beating against him with her small hands. By a superhuman effort she managed to avoid meeting his lips. They merely brushed against her face. At last with a mighty wrench of her body, she freed herself.

Then she flung up her hand and slapped him with all her concentrated strength and fury.

Luigi was taken back for a moment. He put up his hand to his cheek. "You little wild-cat — I ought to—"

"If you dare touch me again, I'll—I'll kill you," Noel exclaimed, her face white with fury. She was shaking all over. She felt that she would have died if his hateful lips had touched hers. Still seething with anger, she cried, "Get out of here. I'm going to get out of this dress. I'm leaving—for good!"

Luigi looked startled, then contrite. "Listen, Noel, I apologize," he began humbly. "I didn't know you'd feel that way about just a—a kiss. Now don't be foolish and give up this job. You need it, or else you wouldn't be living in that tumbled down old house on Court street."

"So you know where I live, do you? You had one of your men follow me to find out, didn't you?" Noel demanded hotly.

Luigi smiled, or at least his lips parted in a near semblance to a smile. "Yes, I did,' he admitted "Not only once, but twice. You see, I thought the first time you might have pulled a fast one on me. But I'm satisfied now that you do live there—except I can't understand why — a pretty girl like you. . . .!"

The angry color again rose to Noel's face. "With every word you say, you grow more insulting. I'm asking you again to get out of here. I want to get dressed."

"But you're not going to walk out on me, are you, Noel?" Nick was almost on his knees now, begging, pleading. "Listen, I'll do anything—anything on earth if you'll only stay." Noel reflected. She hasn't another job as yet. She semed to be caught in a long dreary lane, endless, with never a turn. "I'll stay on one condition," she said coldly. "That you let me absolutely alone."

Luigi promised eagerly. But the next day Noel got a job.

SALES mean jobs

but what does this National Salesmen's Crusade Mean to You?

The economic problem that confronts America today is the human side of industrial progress. We have millions of workers who want to improve their standard of living and we have a buying situation that has reduced their employment possibilities to the uncertain level of a bare existence.

A Program That Spreads Confidence

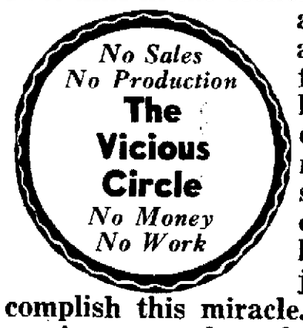
The aggressive cities of America were not content to let this situation go on indefinitely. They decided to DO something about it, to end the buyers' strike, to change fear of spending into a wave of confident buying.

Those who scoffed at the idea and the possibility of success for a plan that asked people to buy AND BUY NOW, soon found their skepticism hushed in a wave of buying, of increased employment, a rising stock market and a definite march forward again along the one-way street of American progress.

Now, in nearly five hundred cities where this sales crusade has been put into operation, immediate and continued results have rewarded the effort.

The Vicious Circle

The power of salesmanship has been realized for the first time in the economic history of our nation. When all other agencies failed to bring about the return of buying confidence, INCREASED SALES EFFORT reversed the vicious circle. Workers who had no money because they were not steadily employed as a result of curtailed production through loss of sales, returned to their jobs. Nothing but sales can accomplish this miracle. And, nothing but hard work can improve sales volume.



Once again the real answer to economic recovery lies in the STATE OF MIND of the consuming public. When they become tired of being uncertain, they start a buying movement and the machinery of prosperity goes into action.

The Plan and Organization Back of It

The National Sales Crusade is not a stunt. It is not aimed at any group or classification of sales outlets or workers. It is a city-wide program, embracing every branch of sales work in every industry and business. It has the endorsement of representative factory, store and sales agency groups. It is being financed by the business men and women of Mansfield who have pledged their time, their money and their organizations in a redoubled sales effort so that employment may be increased and business and working conditions improved in Mansfield.

Your Part In the Program

If you are a sales person, you are asked to make at least ten calls a day in outside work. If you are in a store, make every effort to increase your daily volume that is in keeping with constructive sales effort. You are asked to pass along your belief in your products or service and your enthusiasm for this plan to the consumers.

YOU are the one around whom this city-wide drive is centered. If past conditions have discouraged your better efforts, optimism on your part will do much to improve the situation. This means work, enthusiasm, CONFIDENCE and your chin up!

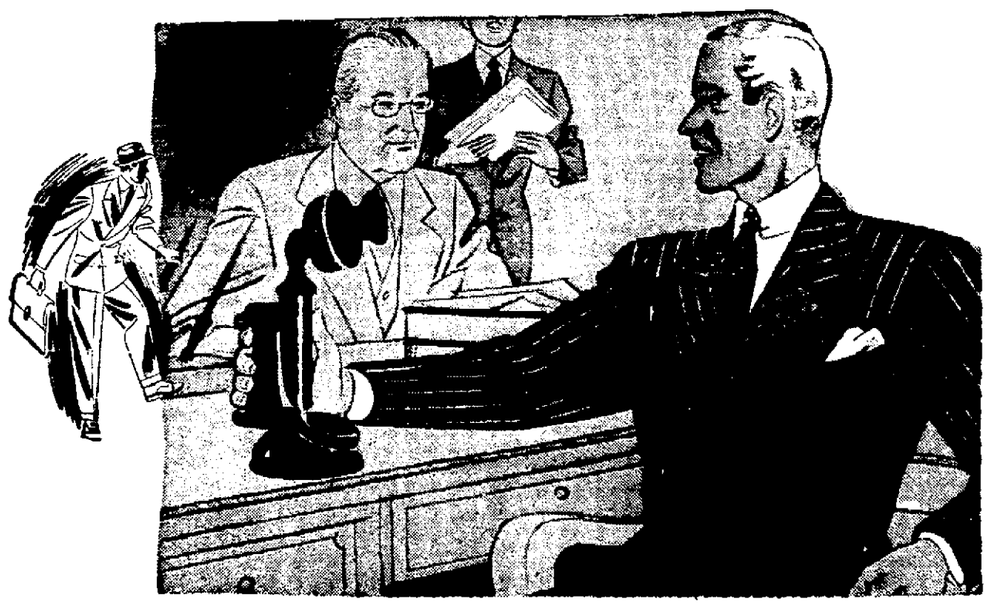
IF YOU ARE A CONSUMER (and everyone is) decide now, among the members of your family, what things you intended to do and to buy THE MOMENT THINGS GET BETTER. Conditions don't just get better by sitting back and doing nothing. You, as a consumer, are the only one who can change conditions. As long as you groan about conditions and spread discouragement among your family and friends, nothing constructive can be accomplished. While space does not permit the printing here of a reminder list, there is not a home nor an organization in Mansfield that does not need MANY things. Your newspaper will bring news of the values that your confidence in this plan will make. Buy the things now that you can afford that will add to your happiness, your security and well being.

It Can Be Done

Reports from other cities show actual sales records that are outstanding along greatly diversified lines, in comparison to the daily records of recession days. On the Public Square, August 2nd, we buried "It Can't Be Done." Your Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchants Association believe in a plan that attacks unemployment at its source. The lack of confidence has shown how quickly pessimism can filter into every village and town, stifling national progress. But good news travels fast. Let's spread the good news here that comes from teamwork between buyer and seller. Let's prove to ourselves that conditions are only what we make them.

This is one time when we "can't let George do it." The success of the plan calls for immediate buying action. Your co-operation will be rewarded by improved employment conditions. We ask you to join with us in this crusade to replace fear with confidence, NOW.

Intensive Sales Effort Will Increase Employment.



We Are Asking a Community Not to Delay Longer!

'MAY FLAVIN' TOPS LIBRARY'S NEW FICTION

Novel Mixes Drama, Love and Heartaches in Life of Woman and Children.

Leading the fiction list at the Public library this week is a volume of drama, love, heartaches and happiness that spans the life of a woman and her children.

Myron Brining, having reached the class of best sellers last year with "The Sisters", a novel about three women who reached maturity about the turn of the century, chooses another woman of that era for his heroine in "May Flavin".

He deserts his native Montana to set his story in Chicago, later in New York City and still later in Hollywood. May Flavin is an Irish girl, daughter of a Chicago policeman. As the bride of young Mike Flavin she follows him to New York City and marches through life with her chin up even though he deserts her, gangsters kill her oldest son, her eldest daughter enters a convent and her youngest son is reported missing in France. Her reward comes at last when two or her children, Sean and Queenie, become the dancing idols of the screen.

Summer Reading.

The rest of the fiction list this week is made up of books chosen purely for warm weather reading and includes mystery, adventure and love stories. They are "Marriage for Rosamond" by Hauck; "You Haven't Changed," Banning; "Today Is Yours," Loring; "High Bridge" by Hueston; "Four Marys," Lea; "Farewell Toinette," Harding; "Hawk in the Wind," Miller; "Gilt Edged Guilt," Wells; 'Nobody's in Town" by Ferber; and "Unfamiliar Faces" by Rosman.

One of the few books of science to reach the best seller lists in several seasons is Albert Einstein's "Evolution of Physics." It was written in collaboration with Leopold Infeld. It is not a text book but a history, written in popular style, of a man's struggle to understand the physical phenomena which surround him.

A timely book is "Children of the Rising Sun" by Willard Price, which is a description of the Japanese people. With West Indies travel becoming more popular each year, "Puerta Rico and Its People" by Trumbull White will interest many readers.

Other non-fiction this week is: "Front Line and Dead Line" by Fortescue; "Contemporary Essays," Hastings; "Democracy in Transition" by Ohio State University, Columbus; "Arbitration," Nichols and Logan; "Law and the Modern Mind," Frank; "Theory and Practice of Modern Government" by Finn; "Early Western Pennsylvania Politics," Ferguson; "Science of Seeing," Luckiesh and Moss; "Cavalcade of America" by Fox and Schlesinger; "Theory of Alternating Current Machinery" by Langsdorf.

Sawyer and Children Pose After Victory

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Two thoroughly delightful little books, for younger children, are "Ragman of Paris and His Ragamuffins" by Elizabeth Orton Jones, and "Jacques at the Window" by Sybil Emerson.

As might be guessed from the titles, both stories are laid in Paris. In the first book, Ragman picks up some old rags, one day, and, to his amazement, they turn out to be two little boys. As they don't belong to anyone, he takes them home to live with him, and Mich and Toby find that life can be very interesting and amusing, living with the Ragman of Paris!

Jacques mother is the caretaker or concierge of an apartment house. He has a pretty lonely time of it until a little American girl comes to live in the same building, but from then on, every day is full to the brim.

SALES mean jobs

but what does this National Salesmen's Crusade Mean to You?

The economic problem that confronts America today is the human side of industrial progress. We have millions of workers who want to improve their standard of living and we have a buying situation that has reduced their employment possibilities to the uncertain level of a bare existence.

A Program That Spreads Confidence

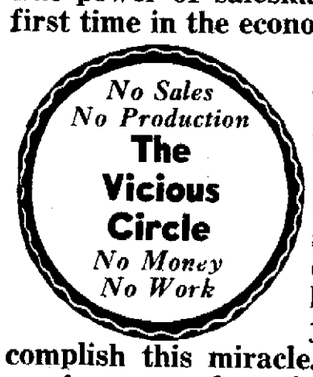
The aggressive cities of America were not content to let this situation go on indefinitely. They decided to DO something about it, to end the buyers' strike, to change fear of spending into a wave of confident buying.

Those who scoffed at the idea and the possibility of success for a plan that asked people to buy AND BUY NOW, soon found their skepticism hushed in a wave of buying, of increased employment, a rising stock market and a definite march forward again along the one-way street of American progress.

Now, in nearly five hundred cities where this sales crusade has been put into operation, immediate and continued results have rewarded the effort.

The Vicious Circle

The power of salesmanship has been realized for the first time in the economic history of our nation. When all other agencies failed to bring about the return of buying confidence, INCREASED SALES EFFORT reversed the vicious circle. Workers who had no money because they were not steadily employed as a result of curtailed production through loss of sales, returned to their jobs. Nothing but sales can accomplish this miracle. And, nothing but hard work can improve sales volume.



Once again the real answer to economic recovery lies in the STATE OF MIND of the consuming public. When they become tired of being uncertain, they start a buying movement and the machinery of prosperity goes into action.

The Plan and Organization Back of It

The National Sales Crusade is not a stunt. It is not aimed at any group or classification of sales outlets or workers. It is a city-wide program, embracing every branch of sales work in every industry and business. It has the endorsement of representative factory, store and sales agency groups. It is being financed by the business men and women of Mansfield who have pledged their time, their money and their organizations in a redoubled sales effort so that employment may be increased and business and working conditions improved in Mansfield.

Your Part In the Program

If you are a sales person, you are asked to make at least ten calls a day in outside work. If you are in a store, make every effort to increase your daily volume that is in keeping with constructive sales effort. You are asked to pass along your belief in your products or service and your enthusiasm for this plan to the consumers.

YOU are the one around whom this city-wide drive is centered. If past conditions have discouraged your better efforts, optimism on your part will do much to improve the situation. This means work, enthusiasm, CONFIDENCE and your chin up!

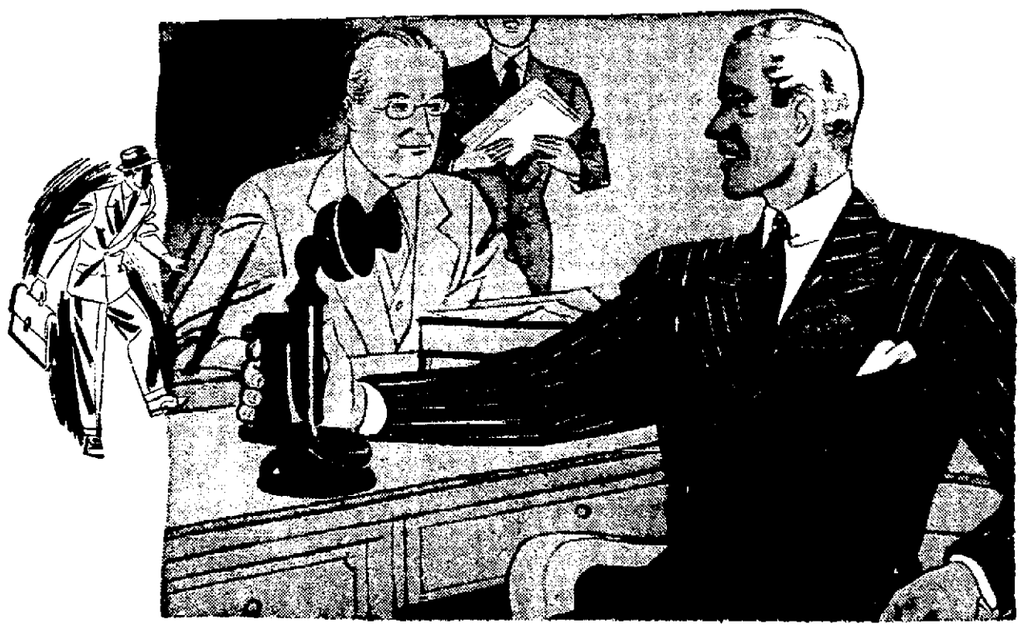
IF YOU ARE A CONSUMER (and everyone is) decide now, among the members of your family, what things you intended to do and to buy THE MOMENT THINGS GET BETTER. Conditions don't just get better by sitting back and doing nothing. You, as a consumer, are the only one who can change conditions. As long as you groan about conditions and spread discouragement among your family and friends, nothing constructive can be accomplished. While space does not permit the printing here of a reminder list, there is not a home nor an organization in Mansfield that does not need MANY things. Your newspaper will bring news of the values that your confidence in this plan will make. Buy the things now that you can afford that will add to your happiness, your security and well being.

It Can Be Done

Reports from other cities show actual sales records that are outstanding along greatly diversified lines, in comparison to the daily records of recession days. On the Public Square, August 2nd, we buried "It Can't Be Done." Your Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchants Association believe in a plan that attacks unemployment at its source. The lack of confidence has shown how quickly pessimism can filter into every village and town, stifling national progress. But good news travels fast. Let's spread the good news here that comes from teamwork between buyer and seller. Let's prove to ourselves that conditions are only what we make them.

This is one time when we "can't let George do it." The success of the plan calls for immediate buying action. Your co-operation will be rewarded by improved employment conditions. We ask you to join with us in this crusade to replace fear with confidence, NOW.

Intensive Sales Effort Will Increase Employment.



We Are Asking a Community Not to Delay Longer!

What You Need and Can Afford, Buy Now!

'MAY FLAVIN' TOPS LIBRARY'S NEW FICTION

Novel Mixes Drama, Love and Heartaches in Life of Woman and Children.

Leading the fiction list at the Public library this week is a volume of drama, love, heartaches and happiness that spans the life of a woman and her children.

Myron Brining, having reached the class of best sellers last year with "The Sisters", a novel about three women who reached maturity about the turn of the century, chooses another woman of that era for his heroine in "May Flavin".

He deserts his native Montana to set his story in Chicago, later in New York City and still later in Hollywood. May Flavin is an Irish girl, daughter of a Chicago policeman. As the bride of young Mike Flavin she follows him to New York City and marches through life with her chin up even though he deserts her, gangsters kill her oldest son, her eldest daughter enters a convent and her youngest son is reported missing in France. Her reward comes at last when two or her children, Sean and Queenie, become the dancing idols of the screen.

Summer Reading.

The rest of the fiction list this week is made up of books chosen purely for warm weather reading and includes mystery, adventure and love stories. They are "Marriage for Rosamond" by Hauck; "You Haven't Changed," Banning; "Today Is Yours," Loring; "High Bridge" by Hueston; "Four Marys," Lea; "Farewell Toinette," Harding; "Hawk in the Wind," Miller; "Gilt Edged Guilt," Wells; "Nobody's in Town" by Ferber; and "Unfamiliar Faces" by Rosman.

One of the few books of science to reach the best seller lists in several seasons is Albert Einstein's "Evolution of Physics." It was written in collaboration with Leopold Infeld. It is not a text book but a history, written in popular style, of a man's struggle to understand the physical phenomena which surround him.

A timely book is "Children of the Rising Sun" by Willard Price, which is a description of the Japanese people. With West Indies travel becoming more popular each year, "Puerta Rico and Its People" by Trumbull White will interest many readers.

Other non-fiction this week is: "Front Line and Dead Line" by Fortescue; "Contemporary Essays," Hastings; "Democracy in Transition" by Ohio State University, Columbus; "Arbitration," Nichols and Logan; "Law and the Modern Mind," Frank; "Theory and Practice of Modern Government" by Finn; "Early Western Pennsylvania Politics," Ferguson; "Science of Seeing," Luckiesh and Moss; "Cavalcade of America" by Fox and Schlesinger; "Theory of Alternating Current Machinery" by Langsdorf.

The event is staged annually by the club for builders of model planes. Contests will be held in four different divisions, gas models, also Balsa glider, scale models and for outdoor duration.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Two thoroughly delightful little books, for younger children, are "Ragman of Paris and His Ragamuffins" by Elizabeth Orton Jones, and "Jacques at the Window" by Sybil Emerson.

As might be guessed from the titles, both stories are laid in Paris. In the first book, Ragman picks up some old rags, one day, and, to his amazement, they turn out to be two little boys. As they don't belong to anyone, he takes them home to live with him, and Mich and Toby find that life can be very interesting and amusing, living with the Ragman of Paris!

BRITISH STUDY FOOD CONTROL

Creation of Boards to Ensure Low Prices Proposed By Eminent Scientists.

(By United Press)

LONDON—The virtual nationalization of the food industry of Great Britain, and the creation of boards to ensure low prices in the interest of public health are advocated in an unusual document which has been drawn up by a body of eminent scientists and public administrations who have been studying the grave effects of malnutrition in the country.

The memorandum, issued by the Committee Against Malnutrition, points out that the majority of people of Great Britain at present cannot afford to buy certain essential foodstuffs.

Food boards, the scientists say should be established under the control of a responsible cabinet minister to control prices in such a way as to insure supplies which are not at present ensured by the operation of the law of supply and demand.

The boards also would market these supplies through public concerns, thus ensuring low prices and good quality.

It is argued that a steadily rising demand for foodstuffs would encourage the producers to be much more enterprising.

Assistance by loans and subsidies, controlled supplies and prices for fertilizer and fodder materials would encourage producers to devote attention mainly to dairy, egg, fruit and vegetable farming, and this would open the way for the importation of wheat, sugar and such like foodstuffs from countries where they are more economically produced.

It also is advocated that the government make itself responsible for free dinners for all school children

PEACH PRICES FALL; SPROUTS, BLUE GRAPES TO MAKE DEBUT

Falling prices of homegrown peaches will bring them back to a more nominal figure this week-end while blue grapes and brussels sprouts will be introduced at the markets as harbingers of autumn. Fresh produce is particularly plentiful and inexpensive as the stores offer a wide variety of green and leafy vegetables and fruits.

All varieties of melons are now available including the cantaloupe, honey dew, Persian and honey ball. Grapefruit and oranges from both California and Florida are more abundant than they have been for several weeks, and lemon prices also are down.

Red and yellow bananas, plums of all kinds, apricots and many varieties of grapes are on hand.

There is little new in the line of vegetables, but all the more common ones such as tomatoes, onions, carrots, peas, beans, turnips, lettuce, endive, spinach and kale are plentiful.

Both white and golden bantam corn are now at their prime, with the red and California baking potato one of the most inexpensive and nourishing foods obtainable now.

For those who seek something different there are mushrooms, ascarole, eggplant and avocados to include on the week-end shopping list.

Relation of Temperance to Character

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug. 14 is Proverbs 4:10-23; I Thessalonians 5:6-8, the Golden Text being Proverbs 20:1, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The wise man, in our Golden Text, likens strong drink to a raging giant, by his deception leading foolish people to their destruction.

Two Paths.

Speaking as a father to his son, Solomon passes on the sound counsel his own father, King David, had given to him, pointing out to him two possible paths of life for him to follow, one wise and safe, the other foolish and destructive: "Hear, O my son, and receive my sayings; and the years of thy life shall be many. I have taught thee in the way of wisdom; I have led thee in paths of uprightness. When thou goest thy steps shall not be straightened; and if thou runnest, thou shalt not stumble. Take fast hold for instruction; let her not go: Keep her for she is thy life." Why should not parents take sufficient interest in their children to give such counsel on right ways of living? Are we so dumb as not to realize that it is far more important we leave great children to carry on our business after us than that we leave a great business for them to carry on? Why leave the character building of our children to agencies outside the home—Sunday school, public schools, Scouts and the like? None can give this instruction so early, so frequently, so appropriately or so effectively as those who alone are entitled to preface the instruction with those intimate terms, "My son," "My daughter." We are in special need of highway markers if the way we travel is new to us. Life is like that to youth. Therefore, those who have traveled the way should give helpful guidance to those to whom the way is new and untraveled.

Warning Signs.

"Enter not into the path of the wicked, and walk not in the way of evil men. Avoid it, pass not by it; turn from it and pass on. For they sleep not, except they do evil; and their sleep is taken away, unless they cause some to fall. For they eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of violence." Street walkers, panderers and prostitutes infest our streets to accost our youth, and lead them to debauchery, disease and death. Why should parents join a conspiracy of silence regarding the moral hazards of our highways and erect no warning signs concerning the deadly perils of drunkenness, adultery, gambling and the like? By radio, billboard and magazine advertisements our youth are enticed to indulge in the use of intoxicants as never before. It is the more necessary that by precept and example they be taught in the home the perils of what this lesson calls "drinking the wine of violence."

The Safe Road.

The safe road is commended thus: "The path of the righteous is as the dawning light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. The way of the wicked is as darkness: they know not at what they stumble. My son, attend to my words . . . Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of Life." The same counsel to self-discipline that Solomon gave was repeated a thousand years later by St. Paul, saying, "Let us watch and be sober . . . They that are drunken are drunken in the night. But let us, since we are of the day, be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for a helmet, the hope of salvation."

McCarthy First Blockhead to Get University Degree

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Hollywood! Which has given the world its share of laughs and tears, today furnished the first blockhead to get a university degree.

The recipient will be Charlie McCarthy.

The degree will be conferred by Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., Aug. 28, with Dean Ralph Dennis placing the laurel wreath on Charlie's head.

According to reports here, Charlie will get the degree of "Master of Innuendo and Snappy Comeback."

With this honor, McCarthy goes one up on Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse. They were honored by innuendo a few months ago when Yale and Harvard conferred a degree on Walt Disney, their creator.

Edgar Bergen, who speaks for Charlie, will be just "among those present" when Northwestern holds its ceremonies.

Senate Committee Seeks Evidence of Violence By CIO

AFFIDAVITS TO BE TAKEN FROM 12 ON STRIKE

Month of Hearings Comes to End With Girdler Demand for Probe of Union.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Changing its procedure, the senate LaFollette committee investigating violations of workers' civil liberties, today instructed its investigators to gather affidavits of persons who claim the CIO was guilty of violence and intimidation during the 1937 "little steel" strike.

Names of 12 persons were given the committee by Thomas F. Patton, general counsel for the Republic Steel corporation. By agreement between Chairman LaFollette and Patton, the corporation will be allowed to have agents attend the taking of affidavits.

Girdler Hits Hearing.

The committee ended a month of hearings on the strike yesterday in a roar of charges by Tom M. Girdler, board chairman of the Republic Steel corporation. He declared the investigation was unfair to the steel companies. Later Patton and LaFollette will attempt to reach an agreement on which affidavits accusing the union are to be incorporated in the committee's records to offset the volumnious testimony presented by CIO witnesses.

Though Girdler submitted demands that the committee "in fairness to both sides," should now investigate the Steel Workers Organizing committee and the CIO, its parent body, committee attaches doubted that this would be done.

Girdler's appeal for revision of the Wagner labor relations act to give employers what he called a better break in its provisions, however, was expected to be championed in congress next year by members hostile to certain features of the act and the administration of the national labor relations board. Senators Burke (D) of Nebraska, Vandenberg (R) of Michigan and other senators have served notice the law should be amended to protect employers as well as employes from harmful acts.

Attacks Murray.

Girdler submitted for the committee's record a broadside against Phillip Murray, head of the SWOC, who recently described the Republic Steel's policy toward labor as the "cesspool of industrial relations." Backing up his charges that Murray is a "liar," Girdler filed what he described as "six specific instances where this man (Murray) has deliberately misled the public."

Girdler quoted Murray as saying he (Girdler) "is a company cop, nothing more nothing less" and then answered by citing his record as superintendent, general manager and finally president of Jones and Laughlin Steel company, before joining Republic as board chairman.

Attributing to Murray a statement that steel strikers did not interefere with movement of mail, Girdler said nine CIO members were indicted and pleaded guilty to that charge.

Death But Three Weeks Away, Weds Not Knowing Fate

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — George Burke, 26, who is dying but doesn't know it, will be married, perhaps today.

His bride will be Betty Luchansky, also 26, who has been his sweetheart for six years and the constant companion at his bedside for the past three years that he has been sinking with an incurable streptococcus infection.

Doctors at St. Luke's hospital announced that Burke could not possibly live more than three weeks. They sent him home to die. Miss Luchansky rode beside him in the ambulance, held his hand and told him of "our beautiful married life ahead."

Lest he become suspicious as to why he was sent home, she slipped away for an hour and bought a license so that they can be married at once. Thus she can keep him convinced that she believes he will live because she is planning their future.

Burke was once a radio engineer. He fell ill just before he and Miss Luchansky were to have been married in May, 1935. He has been in bed ever since and she has attended him daily.

The Kiwanis chicken dinner at Mt. Zion church, near Lucas, last night had its complications . . . Take for instance the wife who was out of town yesterday and late getting home . . . Husband urged her to hurry so they wouldn't miss the dinner . . . Broke speed laws getting to the church . . . Rushed in to find everyone seated and no places left . . . Wife politely refused offers of chairs while husband went in search of table and chairs from church women serving dinner . . . Coming back found wife, red of face, leaving. . . . TWO HANGED IN G-MAN SLAYING

New York Bank Robbers Go to Gallows Together; Father of Victim Sees It.

(By United Press)

LEAVENWORTH, Kans.—Two New York bank robbers and parole violators, Robert J. Suhay, 25, and Glen John Applegate, 46, were hanged together in an outdoor court of the federal penitentiary today for the slaying of a federal agent in the Topeka, Kans., postoffice.

In the front line of the semicircle of witnesses stood H. H. Baker, state senator of Yuma, Ariz., the father of Wimberly W. Baker, 27, the agent who was killed when he attempted to arrest them in the postoffice on April 16, 1937.

The trap was sprung at 3:01 a. m. Suhay, a hook-nosed youthful appearing man, was pronounced dead at 3:17 . m. Applegate died two minutes later. Both met their death calmly.

Wanted for robbing a Katonah, N. Y., bank of $18,000 in cash, the two had been hiding in Topeka and called for their mail under assumed names at the general delivery window of the postoffice.

When caught by Baker, they shot him down and escaped, later to be taken in Nebraska for Baker's murder.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Thief, Robber!"

LAUNCH HEAVY DRIVE ON WAR ANNIVERSARY

400 Reported Killed, 800 Are Wounded by Bombs; Jap Property Damaged.

(By United Press)

HANKOW—Japanese airplanes, heralding what was expected to be the biggest offensive of the year-old Chinese war, bombed Hankow heavily today.

First estimates of the casualties indicated they were large, bringing the total in two days of bombing to approximately 400 killed and 800 wounded.

Forty-five planes rained scores of bombs on all sections of the city. The northern section from which thousands of refugees are fleeing in the face of an anticipated Japanese campaign against the tri-city area of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang was hit hardest.

The bombs which fell on the western bank of the Yangtse came dangerously close to foreign property, including the French concession, the Italian consulate and even the Japanese concession, which the Chinese government took over this week to fortify and defend in case of street fighting with invading Japanese.

The barracks housing Russian pilots flying in the service of the Chinese air force also came within range of falling bombs.

SHANGHAI IN TERROR

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Tension born of terrorism gripped Shanghai today as the metropolis awaited with dread the anniversary tomorrow of the outbreak of Chinese-Japanese fighting in Shanghai.

Anti-Japanese agitators threw two bombs at a Japanese cotton mill in the Italian defense sector of the International settlement and caused the deaths of two Chinese and injuries to 15.

In the settlement's American zone, another gang eluded U. S. marine patrols and bombed a Japanese box factory, without casualties. Japanese property in the British sector also was dynamited. All gangs escaped.

VET OFFERS EYE

Helaine's Mother Confident, Refuses Sacrifice.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Results of final tests to determine whether five-months-old Helaine Judith Colan will survive, and retain sight of her one remaining eye, were awaited today, as the mother, Mrs. Estelle Colan, prepared to return the infant to Chicago.

Helaine was brought here for an examination, after x-ray and radium treatments in an effort to halt glioma which already has necessitated removal of her left eye and endangered her life. Confident of the results, the mother refused the offer of a 55-year-old war veteran to sacrifice one of his eyes for the child.

Mrs. McLaughlin came here to serve as writer, costume designer and technical advisor in the production of a film based on her life with her late husband and dancing partner, Vernon Castle. The roles will be taken by Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Why Is It a Calamity If A Colored Man Acquires Home In White District?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Whatever the motives of Howland Spencer, Mr. Roosevelt's neighbor at Krum Elbow, in selling a 500-acre estate to Father Divine's flock, the deal is likely to loosen at least one little stone in the great wall of prejudice against the colored race. It puts the questions:—Why is it a calamity that a colored man acquires a home in a white community? Why is his mere presence offensive to the white people? Many of those who would bitterly object employ colored servants who sleep under the same roof with them, care for their children, and when they get drunk at night servants cajole them up the stairs, undress them and put them to bed.

In "Gone With the Wind" Miss Margaret Mitchell reminded us that in the days before the Civil war, white children were put to the breasts of colored slave women. Hitler, of course, would say that this contaminated the purity of the babies' racial blood, but Hitler is, by common consent, a vicious maniac as well as an ignoramus.

Yet we do have among us many who would personally resent this suggestion as stupid nonsense who, nevertheless, do regard the colored man as somehow untouchable. He is, in fact, more untouchable now that he is free than he was in the time of slavery.

Then he lived in quarters right on the grounds of his owner and close by the big house, much closer than Father Divine's new heaven to Mr. Roosevelt's ancestral estate. He was in and out of the big house at will, he fetched and carried and his women cooked and made the beds and, in confinements, helped the doctors deliver white babies.

It is hard to reconcile such intimate relationship between white and colored people with the prejudice which would regard the arrival of a colored family in a white block as something like the outbreak of a plague.

The establishment of a heaven for colored religious fanatics might reasonably be protested by the white neighbors on some grounds. A similar colony of white people given to whooping and bawling and brass music in the night would be equally unpleasant, however, and that reduces the problem into a matter of conduct.

I have never encountered a colored reporter on a newspaper assignment, but we did have a photographer around here a few years ago who seemed to be a colored man, and he seemed to get along very well with the crowd. Nobody broke out with any disease.

That being so, I can't believe that the white personnel would be jarred for more than a moment if some paper in New York should put a colored man to work on a rewrites or on the copy desk as an experiment. A colored reporter might run into difficulties which would handicap him too much.

In Harlem an organization of shopkeepers has agreed to hire colored help at the rate of one in three, and white clerks who have been in the habit of selling food, clothing and all to colored customers will notice hardly any difference in working on the same side of the counter with colored men and women.

Conduct is a separate matter entirely, and should be dealt with by the regular methods. People quartered in bug-infested slums and excluded from jobs which are open to any immigrant alien, including the Nazi and the Communist, cannot be expected to develop the best manners, nor can it be said that their conduct is any worse than that of other slum dwellers.

Some of them get drunk, fight and commit adultery, but it seems that I have read of similar goings-on in the night life of the pink people, as Bernard Shaw calls us, including members of many of our noblest families.

Father Divine's flock may prove to be an awful nuisance to the neighbors at Krum Elbow, and Mr. Roosevelt's property value may be adversely affected by this settlement. But if a settlement of quiet colored farmers were to put themselves down and start working the land and operating little stores in the same region there would still be objection, solely on the ground of color. It would be so in any northern white community seventy-five years after the north proclaimed brotherhood with the colored folks and set them free to rot.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Life will not be the same again, tsk, tsk. Samuel Goldwyn officially has decreed there shall be no more "Goldwyn gags." Does that mean, answer quickly, that Sam is going to stop talking?

Frank Albertson visited the "Brother Rat" set, where Wayne Morris is playing the role Frank created on the stage. Frank could have had the picture, too, except that Wayne Morris is under contract to Warner's, hence must be "built." But—this is how these things work out—Eddie Albert is in "Brother Rat" also. Frank Albertson is playing Eddie Albert's original role in "Room Service" at RKO.

The doctors should look in on Leif Erikson. I saw him work up a terrific sweat battling with his screen father, Akim Tamiroff, in "Escape From Yesterday." After the scene Leif, the gangling giant, cooled off. He stood in front of a huge electric fan, a procedure guaranteed to give the average guy pneumonia. "Never hurts me," said Leif. "It's the only way I can cool off."

Leif and the missus (Frances Farmer) have kissed and made up with Paramount, after all those things they said in New York about pictures—which shows how easily Hollywood forgives, or how fond it is of being slapped in the nose.

While Leif was battling Tamiroff, I talked to Akim, he being represented in the fray by stuntman Duke Greene as usual. . . . Akim thinks he reaches his "high point" in the Crosby picture, "Paris Honeymoon," and rejoices because in "The World's Applause" with Raft he gets to wear six different make-ups. . . . Paul Muni will be one up on him still, however. . . . "Seven Faces," remember?

Whitney Bourne, who invariably wears slacks or evening dress, with no in-between style, dolled up for a preview and got mobbed—the fans thought she was Dietrich!

Pat O'Brien plays a priest for the first time in "Angels With Dirty Faces," and it's a role not unlike that which hopped up the career of Spencer Tracy in "San Francisco." . . . Cagney's the gangster who gets the hot seat in the end, and after this death he goes into "Each Dawn I Die."

Ronald Colman couldn't be talked into personal-appearing for the finale of a benefit concert at the Bowl, beneficiary the Los Angeles orchestra. . . . Said Ronnie: "People who come to a concert shouldn't have to listen to a lousy actor!" He offered to contribute $1,000 to the cause, however, and when this was refused they compromised, Colman "appearing" via electrical transcription.

Sid Silvers was telling a fellow-comic of his own admiration for Thomas Alva Edison and how he treasured a letter he received once from the great inventor. . . . The other fellow, who thinks he got where he is through showmanship, said he thought Thomas A. ought to have used more of it. . . . "But look, mugg," said Sid, "if it hadn't been for Edison that pan of yours wouldn't be on the screen today!" . . . "Okay, okay," said the other, "but I still say if Edison had used a little showmanship, look where he might have got!" . . . Sid's still reeling at the wonder of it all.

AND NOW FOR MOTHER

Kittenish Women At Fault

This is another in the series of articles on petting being presented on The News-Journal Woman's Page by the famous authority on problems of love and marriage, Beatrice Fairfax. In these articles Miss Fairfax tells the whys and wherefores of modern youth's "psychological revolution" in regard to petting, and discusses the fundamental dangers of petting along with the attitudes of both the old and young.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

The other day was "Father's Day," when it came to discussing petting.

In the preceding column we entreated the head of the house, if he were addicted to what the dictionary terms "indulgence in endearment; to treat as a pet; to fondle; caress," not to mislay his sense of humor and call down daughter if she indulges in similar dalliance.

If you happen to recall the daughter's letter, she resented father's homily because he had with him when he delivered it the siren who had broken up their family. Daughter had the last word by referring to herself as "a chip off the old block."

Innumerable letters have come to this column about attractive fortyish ladies "cutting out" their daughters. Judging from this evidence, from the newspapers and from what one observes, mother is seldom the acute petter that father is.

Mamma, if she has decided "never to grow old," likes to flirt and sees no reason to put away her dancing shoes at forty. She may charm daughter's boy friend till he doesn't know which way he's going, but it's seldom that she wrecks the home, divorces dad and hails the young man before the parson.

As mother was promised her day, in the interests of justice to dad, it's only fair to give a few samples of complaining letters from sons and daughters of women who persist in being fascinating, when members of their families would prefer to see them knitting in the chimney corner.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Mother is a widow, a swell looker, and everyone likes her. She's humorous and can turn on a stage show about anything that happens during the day. But I never realized she was dangerous until I brought my roommate home from college and he fell in love with her. Probably she's only amusing herself at Bill's expense. But I'll be damned if I'd have him for a stepfather.

"Sonny."

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"When we were little, mother was just about perfect. She did everything for us, and we had the jolliest kind of a home. Now that we've grown up, she thinks too much about having a good time. She came to our college prom and danced the whole evening with my boy friend and the friends of other girls.

"She's pretty, slender and attractive, but I liked her better when she wasn't a vamp. She's been a widow for two years, and our family doctor would like to marry her. I saw him kiss her: when I told her I thought it was vulgar for a woman of 40 to pet, she stated her side of the case.

'She said she had come to the holiday time of her life and while it would only be a half-holiday, she intended to make the most of it. She'd brought us up, worked in an office to give my brother a college education, and cooked the dinner after she got home. It was narrow-minded of me, she said to object to her having a little fun.

"She declared she had spent her youth washing diapers, scalding baby bottles, straining spinach and wheeling a parambulator, and that she wasn't going to settle down and be a 'stylish stout' now that she is forty. But to have your mother 'go into reverse' is trying.

"Critical."

Mother seems to have done a pretty good job with you children, and I think it would be only fair for you to see her point of view. She isn't engaged in home-wrecking, and she's probably made up her mind that life begins at 40—and to marry the doctor.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Aug. 13.

THE PLANETARY auspices for this day are entirely subtle and intriguing, with much bewilderment and guesswork as to just what might happen. Mysterious, crafty, illicit, capitvating and nefarious events loom.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of highly-uncertain, peculiar and subtle influences, with intrigue, secrecy, subterfuge or the mysterious, shaping the affairs. Travel in such behind-the scenes interests is probable, but be most discreet, relying on the sound advice or co-operation of a trusted elder.

A child born on this day may make a name for itself in some highly-mysterious or singular career, as it may be fond of the unique, hidden, pecular. It may behighly imaginative and emotional.

Refreshing Beverage Recipes

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

SOME PEOPLE believe that hospitality and heat do not mix, but they form a very gracious union when there is a porch, a potation and a batch of home-made cookies or some cake. A porch potation is merely a very fancy name for any simple, cooling summer beverage, and it can be anything from the prosaic lemonade to some of the newer combinations which are equally thirst-quenching and refreshing.

Spiced pineapple juice is a grand drink. Boil one cup sugar, one and one-half cups water, two sticks cinnamon and eight whole cloves for five minutes. Strain and cool. When cool, add this syrup to four cups unsweetened pineapple juice, one cup orange juice and one-half cup lemon juice. Pour the entire mixture over crushed ice, serve in thin glasses—and prepare to receive compliments!

Mocha milk shake is another spiced drink that is cooling and refreshing. It is highly nourishing, too. Put into a beverage shaker two-thirds cup rich milk, one-third cup cold coffee, two tablespoons malted coco, a few grains of salt and one-eighth teaspoon ground cinnamon. Chill. Shake very thoroughly and serve.

Mint Tea.

Mint tea, as served in the deep, lovely southland, is a delicious drink on a hot day. Boil two cups sugar, one-half cup water and grated rind of an orange for about five minutes. Remove from fire and add crushed leaves of several sprays of mint. Let cool. Into six glasses of very strong tea put juice of six oranges. Half fill iced tea glasses with crushed ice, add the tea and sweeten to taste with the mint syrup. A sprig of mint or a slice of orange may be added to each glass for a nice garnish.

Orange julep is another southern charmer. It is made by mixing one quart orange juice, one cup sugar, juice of six limes and one-half cup minced mint. Place on ice for an hour. Half fill glasses with ice, add prepared juice and mint sprigs.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

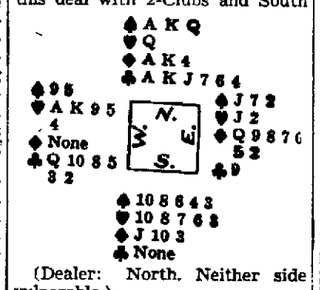
Most tenaces lose much of their value unless they stand at the right of the card they cover. It will pay, though, to hold on to one, even when it is at the left, if your opponent can't lead through it but must lead away from his blanketed honor. This is an entity to consider when discarding on the defense while the declarer is running other suits.

North started the bidding on this deal with 2-Clubs and South responded with 2-No Trump. After 3-Clubs by North, South called 3-No Trump and North allowed it to play there.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

The heart 5 was led by West. When the Q held the trick, South took time out to decide how to get nine tricks. It was absolutely impossible for him to enter his own hand, so he went right after the club suit. The A was played and followed by the K. When East failed to follow, the suit was abandoned. Three rounds of spades were now led and followed by the diamonds A and K. The discards by West on the two diamonds and one spade to which he could not follow were clubs, baring his club Q. This made things simple for South, for all he had to do then was to lead a club to West for one trick in that suit, whereas he should have lost at least two. West, after cashing his two high hearts, was obliged to give South a heart trick.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I STOPPED short in my rapid walk toward the outer door and swung sharply around, facing Lillien, for her sudden query, "What's the matter with the Dicky-bird?" had startled me.

But it had also heartened me, for I realized that the hope of weeks was coming to fruition. Lillian had come yack into my life again, Lillian, the best friend that either Dicky or I ever had possessed. Closer than a sister was this woman who had proved her loyalty and her affection for us in so many striking ways for so long a period of years.

But not in the corridor could I confide my fears to her. That was for the privacy of my own rooms behind locked doors. Because of this feeling gripping me, my answer was a banal echo of her query.

"Dicky? The matter with him?" I stammered. "Why! I don't know—"

"Oh! yes you do," Lillian said cooly. "But I don't blame you for not wanting to blat out things in the hall here. I had to put the question, though, to get your reaction. I knew the minute I set eyes on the Dicky-bird last night that something was wrong—remember I've parsed his moods and tenses for a good many years—but on the chance I might be mistaken, I just had to put the question to you when you were off guard and get your reaction. Your face confirmed what Dicky's had told me. Forgive me for startling you, but I just had to know. The details can wait until we're by ourselves behind locked doors. Forget it for now Let's look at the doors and then go to the kitchen and tackle Katie."

Lillian Understands.

Half relieved, half resentful, I went with her to each door, finding them all locked. But by the time I had reached the kitchen, my resentment had vanished, and I caught her hand with an intense remorseful grip just before we opened the door.

"I know," she whispered, "and it's all right. Let's see what Katie is doing."

Katie was "doing plenty," as Jerry Ticer would put it. She was dashing from stove to work table and back again with a rapidity almost dervish-like. And her face was dour. To neither of us did she vouchsafe the smile with which she generally greets anyone entering her kitchen.

"Hello, Katie!" Lillian's voice was cheery, and her smile and outstretched hand ignored the scowling face of our kitchen priestess. "It's good to see you again. And how good things smell! I don't mind telling you I'm starved."

"No goot telling me dot, Missis Underwood," Katie said morosely, putting her hands childishly behind her. "Und you plees oxcoose me, no shaking hands. Dey all covered mit flour. Und I no can tell ven supper ready. Me, I hoory shoost as fast as I can, but dot old dev—dot old vomans oopstairs, she drive me clear out of my mind. Meesis Graham, you no tell me she coom oopstairs. I thought I do dot feexing room all by myself."

Doesn't Notice Rebuke.

I saw that it needed but a touch to turn her moroseness into an explosion of hysteria, so I passed over the rebuke for her disrespectful reference to my mother-in-law, which was trembling on my lips. Instead, I spoke placatingly.

"I did not intend that anyone except Jim should be with you when you fixed that room, Katie," I began, "but you saw Queen Olga fall down when they alighted from the car, didn't you?"

"Sure ting," she returned. "Didn't I see dem carry her in keetchen?"

"You see, she was still unconscious when they carried her in," I began, and Katie interrupteid, her dour expression gone, her face avid with curiosity.

"Vot? She faint avay?" she demanded.

"Yes," I returned, "and they had to bring her back to consciousness. They needed Mrs. Bickett, so Madam Graham volunteered to go upstairs and care for the children so that Mrs. Bickett could come downstairs."

"She goot sport dot old vomans, if she do devil life right oudt of me," Katie commented with surprising equability. "Dot must shoost aboudt keel her, to go oopstairs mit keeds ven so mooch happening downstairs. No vonder she devil me. She got to do sometings to stir oop a leedle oxcitement."

The preferred way to add the liquid to biscuits is to make a "well" in the sifted dry ingredients and pour the liquid in all at once. The time required for mixing is usualy about 20 seconds or until the mixture follows the spoon.

Kneading is important in making good biscuits since it helps to produce light and flaky biscuits with a fine texture. The dough is kneaded on a very lightly floured board for ½ minute or from 15 to 18 strokes. Equally good results are obtained by the "pat out fold over" method. In this, the biscuit dough is folded from 8 to 10 times.

Glycerine as Sweeting May Have Wide Uses

The claims of research that glycerine is actually sweeter than sugar are arousing wide interest both in commercial food processing circles and among food consultants in the field of domestic cookery as pointing the way to a still wider utilization of this wholesome fluid.

Scientific confirmation of the potency of glycerine as a sweetener was provided by the report of studies made at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, where a group conducted research on a grant from the American Medical association to determine the relationship between chemical construction and sweet taste. Taste tests made with six standardized individuals who used the sweetness of sucrose (cane sugar) as a basis of 100, gave to glycerine a sweetness rating of 108.

With the growing interest in specially prepared sugar-free foods, preserves, confections, and the like for those for whom a sugar-restricted diet is advisable, this proof of the value of glycerine as a potential sweetener is especially significant.

The oven temperature for baking biscuits is 450 degrees, or a hot oven. If the temperature is lower than this, the biscuits will become dry before they are done. A hot oven makes them puff up to flaky lightness. The baking period is 10 to 12 minutes.
